VOLUME 8 NO. 23

THIS SOLDIER STILL REMEMBERS D-DAY Do you know him?

On Friday, June 6, 2014, the United States and its World War II allies, celebrated the 70th anniversary of D-Day and honored the men and women who fought for freedom in that

"In 1944, more than 160,000 Allied troops landed along a 50-mile stretch of heavilylanded along a 50-mile stretch of heavily-fortified French coastline, to fight Nazi Germany on the beaches of Normandy, France. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower called the operation a crusade in which, "we will accept nothing less than full victory." More than 5,000 Ships and 13,000 aircraft supported the D-Day invasion, and by day's end, the Allies gained a foot-hold in Continental Europe. The cost in lives on D-Day was high. More than 9,000 Allied Soldiers were killed or wounded. 9,000 Allied Soldiers were killed or wounded, but their sacrifice allowed more than 100,000 Soldiers to begin the slow, hard slog across Europe, to defeat Adolf Hitler's crack troops."

(Source: www.army.mil)

In addition to those troops on land, thousands of other U.S. soldiers were ready in various locations around the globe to support the effort. Several of those men and women still live in our midst today.

One of these brave soldiers spoke with the Mountain Views News and shared where he was on that fateful day. He was on board the U.S.S. Saratoga which was in the Indian Ocean awaiting further instructions. "I heard about the invasion on the ship and remember how happy everyone was that we had landed."

President Barack Obama address veterans and heads of every allied nation Friday and noted, "Normandy represents democracy's beachhead, in honor of the invasion which was a turning point in World War II. He said it was "not just a century but shaped the security and well being of all posterity."

Our thanks goes out to all of our servicemen and women, past and present, for putting our well being before their own lives.

Now, regarding the young man in the photo, turn to page 3 and see if you recognize him.

DROUGHT CONDITIONS BRING LOCAL WILDLIFE UNCOMFORTABLY CLOSE

For the most part, Sierra Madrean's have learned to live with our wildlife. and most residents know what to do when our friends come to visit. However, in Friday's Town Hall meeting sponsored by Chief Larry Giannone and the Sierra Madre Police Department, those in attendance were informed that there had been several incidents involving a new (to the neighborhood) animal. Rattlesnakes!

The presentation, which covered several other topics, reminded residents what to do if they see a bear, or a coyote, or a mountain lion. To date, there have been no harmful confrontations with any of those animals and humans. However, there have been several rattlesnake bites of late, and one resident was still hospitalized.

Giannone informed the audience that the lack of food and water was bringing animals further down into the city. And the rattlesnakes, unlike bears, mountain lions and coyotes are usually hard to spot.

He told of one incident where the snake was resting inside a coiled garden hose. In another case, the snake was hidden in a pile of logs.

He cautioned residents to be careful and if they are ever bitten by a rattlesnake, call 911 and keep the area of the bite lower than your

Bears have been making more frequent appearances and have been going further into town than ever before. He cautioned that bears "are used to people", however our actions generally start the commotion.

Mountain lions have also been spotted more frequently. In the last week, a deer was killed in Bailey Canyon not far from the parking lot by a Mountain Lion. The deer was found by a hiker. The mountain lion was not.

A good source of information on how to live with our wildlife can be found at the California Department of Fish and Game's website:

http://www.dfg.ca.gov

IF YOU SPOT ANY OF THESE ANIMALS, CALL THE SMPD. THE ANIMALS WILL BE RETURNED TO THE WILD.

WHAT TO DO IN THE EVENT OF A SNAKE BITE

Though uncommon, rattlesnake bites do occur, so have a plan in place for responding to any situation. Carry a portable phone, hike with a companion who can assist in an emergency, and make sure that family or friends know where you are going and when you will be checking in.

The first thing to do if bitten is to stay calm. Generally, the most serious effect of a rattlesnake bite to an adult is local tissue damage which needs to be treated. Children, because they are smaller, are in more danger if they are bitten.

Get to a doctor as soon as possible, but stay calm. Frenetic, high-speed driving places the victim at greater risk of an accident and increased heart rate. If the doctor is more than 30 minutes away, keep the bite below the heart, and then try to get to the doctor as quickly as

The California Poison Control Center advises:

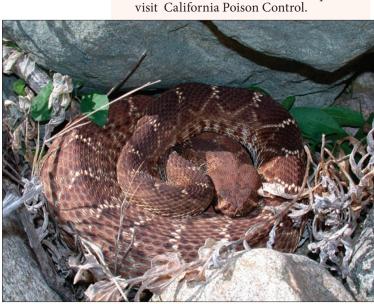

Wash the bite area gently with soap and

Remove watches, rings, etc, which may constrict swelling

Immobilize the affected area

Transport safely to the nearest medical

PLANNING COMMISSION

The responsibilities of the Planning Commission fall into two broad categories: consideration of current land-use (i.e. applications for General Plan amendments, zone changes, specific plans, conditional use permits, tract maps, variances, and appeals of staff land-use decisions); and advising the City Council on City initiated amendments to the City's General Plan. Meets the 1st and 3rd Thursday at 7:00 pm, in the City Hall Council Chambers

The advisory bodies study a variety of topics in detail. In certain situations, commissions are empowered to make specific decisions, subject to appeal to the Council. Public notices on all commissions are prepared in compliance of the Maddy Act.

EXTRAORDINARY CUSTOM FLORAL ARRANGEMENTS

BIG CHANGES AT SIERRA MADRE'S AGE INTERNET RADIO STATION:

The Board of Directors of Village Vine Online has decided to move the organization in a new direction. In keeping with our mission of community service, we are discontinuing 24/7 live audio streaming. In order to better serve the community, our focus will be on providing live audio and video webcasts and podcasts of community events, podcasts of hosted shows homegrown here in Sierra Madre, video and audio webcasts and podcasts of community sports events, and, by the end of the summer, we will present a community blog, with guest host bloggers rotating every few months.

CITIZEN WEBCASTERS: Part of our new approach is to utilize "citizen webcasters" living here in town. We are now actively recruiting people who can attend public events, and, utilizing equipment as simple as their smart phones, webcast those events through the Village Vine web site. Contact us at hostvi@yahoo.com if you would like to volunteer. Training will be provided.

CITIZEN PODCASTERS: We are looking for podcasters who might like to share their home-grown podcasts on the Village Vine web site. Subjects for podcasts could include original music, gardening, cars, dogs, water conservation, sports, etc. The subject matter for potential podcasts is only limited to the degree the community might have interest in it. Contact us at hostvi@yahoo.com if you would be interested in podcasting with us.

WALKING SIERRA MADRE..... The Social Side By Deanne Davis

"Until you face your fears, you don't move to the other side, where you find the power." Mark Allen – Six Time Ironman World Champion

"I do not train to swim, bike, or run faster, I train to remove 'quit' from my body and from my mind."

Walking Sierra Madre the last few months, we've been waiting for the new business to open at 49 W. Sierra Madre Blvd., where Iris Intrigue and then the furniture consignment store were located. Wandered in there today, met Brandon Heflin and learned a little bit about what happens at Centric. Here it is in a word: Lots!

If you've ever considered such a thing as participating in an Ironman Triathlon, here's what you have to be able to do: 2.4mile swim, 112-mile bicycle ride and a marathon 26.2-mile run, raced in that order and without a break. Most Ironman events have a strict time limit of 17 hours to complete the race. OK then! Centric is the place to start. There's a comfortable area where Brandon will sit down with athletes and potential athletes and discover what each person's needs in coaching actually are. Centric is also the place for endurance coaching, education in nutrition suitable for competition, and creating the mindset to achieve their goals for runners, tri-athletes and anyone at all, from the person who'd just like to learn how to ride a bike to an Ironman competitor. Brandon, by the way, has competed in the Ironman Coeur d'Alene, the Ironman Wisconsin, and done a half Ironman in Hawaii. He is currently involved in local competitive bike racing but his love is helping his clients achieve their goals. A complete novice can walk into Centric with a goal and walk out with all he needs to achieve it. And that's a complete novice of any age, mid-20's on up to whatever, and there's no height or weight limit either!

Centric Bike launched in 2011, specializing in coaching, bike frame building, stock bikes built to order, semi-custom and full custom paint work; and Brandon still maintains his home shop in Pasadena. Sierra Madre Centric is an athlete-driven, niche boutique, small enough to meet the needs of each person who walks in looking for coaching. Brandon says, "My job and my goal is to coach myself out of a job!" He works one on one with ten to twenty athletes at a time, and has people coming in from all over Ventura County, the Inland Empire, and, of course locally. He starts with a lengthy interview to find out what each potential athlete is hoping to achieve; as he says, 'Goals need to be realistic... and just out of reach!' Brandon makes sure each client is medically cleared and then there's testing which helps folks define where they are and where they want to go. Brandon's methods are based on years of experience, since 2002, in fact, and a passion for teaching and developing athletes. "It's exciting to see how transformative this can be in people's lives. Ordinary people can do extraordinary things!"

Testing? Don't be nervous, nobody's going to suggest anything like: Simplify the expression 2(a-3) + 4b - 2(a-b-3) + 5! No, indeed! There's a computationer bike which measures your power output and endurance; a Spin-Scan which discloses any discrepancies between your right and left legs. Also a treadmill and a VO2Max test which shows your aerobic endurance, and the amount of oxygen you effectively use. These simple tests are the best indicators of an athlete's performance. Centric uses their years of experience in addition to scientific and clinical testing to define exactly how to assess each athlete's endurance needs. Bottom line: No guesswork!

Centric can put you into the right outfit for serious competition or casual bike riding, along with accessories and nutrition supplements to help you toward that goal you've been keeping a secret! Brandon's been working with the Power Bar people for some years to help them with packaging, textures and flavors. As you can probably guess, nutrition is huge in helping people achieve goals.

Brandon, his partner, Michael Hagler and Centric are constantly keeping up to date in the latest medical and sports findings, reading and exploring new ways to educate themselves and their clients. As Brandon says, he doesn't define goals, he and Centric help you define them and then get there. Why Sierra Madre? Easy to get to for people coming from work and a pleasant place to end the day. Brandon commented especially on the friendliness of the businesses all around him, as he and Mike were renovating the Centric quarters, all of which they did themselves! Stop in, say hi to Brandon, admire the gorgeous bikes, and maybe you, too, will be thanking him after you successfully complete your first Ironman!

"Endurance sports are accessible to everyone in their own individual time frame. I believe in people, their capabilities and potential!" Brandon Heflin

"A Tablespoon of Love, A Tablespoon of Laughter."

"Metro has delayed the opportunity for the coalition in some way to participate and demonstrate the existence of the coalition and the intention of the five cities to work together,"

Before being stopped by city attorney Michele Beal Bagneris, Gordo said the task force could look for things not included or alternatives not in the EIR. He said that included partnering with Los Angeles.

"I think we stand the strongest chance of achieving that, with not just the coalition but the 800 pound gorilla that's the city of Los Angeles." He referred to L.A. Mayor Eric Garcetti as a "friend of the council."

Bagneris said the item was not on that night's agenda and advised them to stop the conversation.

"This is discussion that's going into various matters that members of the public, who are interested in the subject, may want to participate in," she said.

Wiretapping Bill Clears Assembly

Assemblymember Chris Holden's bill to extend California's wiretapping wiretapping "sunset" date for an additional five years was unanimously approved 75 to 0 on the Assembly floor last week.

With the evolution of the digital age, lawbreakers have become more clever better organized, especially when it comes to drug and arms trafficking," stated Assemblymember Holden. "That's why it's so important that law enforcement officials have an equally sophisticated response. By extending the sunset date, we'll give our law enforcement teams additional tools to keep our communities safe."

California's wiretap statute is set to expire on January 1, 2015. According to a report released by the California Attorney General's office, approximately 700 electronic interceptions were approved in 16 counties resulting in some 961 arrests were made in 2012. In San Diego County alone, approved intercepts resulted in the seizure of more than $1.3 million worth of drugs and the arrests of more than 50 suspects.

AB 1526 received unanimous, bipartisan support and has opposition.

This announcement ceremony was held at Arcadia City Chambers, and many attended: Arcadia's Mayor John Wuo, Council Member Sho Tay, City Manager Dominic Lazzaretto, Police Chief Bob Guthrie and several officers, Fire Chief Kurt Norwood, Director of Recreation and Community Services Sara Somogyi, Director of Library and Museum Services Mary Beth Hayes, Communications, Marketing & Special Projects Manager Linda Garcia, Public Works Management Analyst Carmen Masud, and Communications & Marketing Specialist II Kristen Olafson-Segal. Also present were Arcadia Chamber CEO Scott Hedrick, Chamber President Denise Weaver and photographer

With the support of more than one million coaches and volunteers, Special Olympics is able to deliver 32 Olympic-type sports and more than 70,000 competitions throughout the year. Visit www.specialolympics.org.

At the Announcement Ceremony, there were several great speakers. Kim Guillien, Special Olympian participant from Covina blew us away with her fantastic speech. This young lady is truly an inspiration to all and it was befitting that she held the special Proclamation from the City of Arcadia. Next to her was Richard Van Kirk who was presented a Key to the City of Arcadia. There also were presentations by Viola Van representing Congresswoman Judy Chu and Olivia Lee representing Assemblyman Ed Chau.

Mayor Wuo spoke of the honor for Arcadia as a Host Town and praised the Special Olympic Games which bring "competition and team spirit". Mayor Wuo also commended Dick Van Kirk who he has known as a great volunteer/Board Member of Methodist Hospital

When she elected to check on the man's well-being, he began taking pictures of her and punched her after she told him to stop. In self-defense, the woman hit the man on his head with a glass bottle. The man was determined to be a transient and the woman was not desirous of prosecution.
- 4. At about 7:40 p.m., an officer was dispatched to Macy's at the Santa Anita Mall, 400 South Baldwin Avenue, regarding a theft report. Tuesday, May 27:

- 5. At approximately 6:40 p.m., an officer conducted a traffic stop on a vehicle in the area of Santa Anita Avenue and Foothill Boulevard due to the driver not wearing his seatbelt. The officer discovered the 57-year-old White male driver had an expired license. He was cited in the field without incident and his vehicle was left legally parked.
- 6. Around 7:18 p.m., an officer was dispatched to a residence in the 400 block of West Walnut Avenue regarding a report of a home invasion. An investigation revealed a legal repossession agency entered the victim's closed garage to repossess a BMW 750i while no one was home. The victim is desirous of prosecution for unlawful entry into his home.

Wednesday, May 28:

Saturday, May 31:

- 13. Shortly after 5:00 p.m., an officer responded to the 11900 block of Clark Street regarding a report of a stolen water valve. THE REEL DEAL: by Ben Show X-MEN: DAYS OF FUTURE PAST

For me, this movie looked very interesting for two reasons: Bryan Singer was back as the director and the entire X-Men team was being reassembled. This movie had a lot it needed to do, most importantly, reset the X-Men timeline after the events of 'The Last Stand', and it did that very successfully.

When the X-Men are faced with the threat of Sentinels, giant robotic beings that target mutants and parents of potential mutants, they must figure out a way to stop them without physically fighting them. Their solution: have Kitty Pryde (Ellen Page) send Wolverine (Hugh Jackman) back in time to the 70s, when the Sentinel program was first created by Dr. Bolivar Trask (Peter Dinklage), and stop them from ever being made.

While the plot may seem confusing and convoluted, the movie makes sure you understand what it going on before it begins the amazing action sequences. This movie does so many good things for the X-Men series, like setting up events that may take place in later movies and introduces the villain for the next film, X-Men: Apocalypse. This is by far the best film in the series so far and should be seen by both fans and newcomers.

are various and sundry reasons why the family dog has earned the age-old title of "man's best friend", and rightfully so. Among the many virtues that the canine shares with his two-legged human companions, most amazing to me is that fact that the dog is capable and more than willing to bridge the gap between humans of differing ages, cultures, lifestyles and languages.

The idea that a dog is actually capable of bringing people together who would otherwise most likely not even bother to share the time of day, really hit close to home for me during one of my walks with a canine client. I am a person who has always fostered some semblance of diversity in my life. I have an eclectic collection of friends including people of various colors, shapes, sizes, ages and walks of life, but I must admit that I am only human, therefore I do still notice the differences between myself and others. No matter how hard I try to ignore or even erase thoughts and preconceptions that may come to mind when I cross paths with people who look or act different from myself, there are times when I do automatically and presumptuously profile a person based on appearance or behavior.

When those preconceived notions come to mind, I try very hard to suppress them, but the thoughts are there, regardless. I realize that my mind works this way because I was raised in a culture that inherently encourages the identification of others according to the color of their skin, racial origin, behavioral patterns, or even financial status, and I think that is very unfortunate. If I could change that about my culture, I most definitely would. But, it is what it is and all one can do is live one's own life the way they know they should. I said all that to say this...Thank God for dogs!

During a recent walk with two of my favorite canine client companions, we were trekking up Grand View towards the Arcadia highland community, when we happened to cross paths with an older couple walking two darling silky terriers . Because the two dogs I was walking are always very cordial in dealing with other dogs that we meet along the way, I was not concerned about a potential canine confrontation, so we stayed steady on our trail rather than crossing to the other side of the street.

As we drew closer to the couple who were walking in the opposite direction, I looked up at them, gave them a wide, "happy to meet ya" kind of smile, and said "good morning!". Initially, they both looked away in what may have appeared to be embarrassment or loss of words. My thought is that they were not completely comfortable with my greeting, simply because they are not completely comfortable with their skills in speaking the English language.

Apparently, however, my two four-legged friends did seem to speak the same language as the two little pups that they were walking, so they greeted each other with nothing but confidence and appreciation and within a moment's time, we humans followed suit and stood and watched the dogs interact and socialize with intent vigor. By the time we parted ways, having observed such kind and reciprocal social behavior between our pets, I felt that I had made a couple of new friends that I hope to bump into again in the near future, and I would like to think that they felt the same way.

See what I mean? How cool is it that our pets can play a part in bridging a gap between ourselves and our neighbors? That is what prompted me to write this short (yet, hopefully effective) article about the value of a dog's social virtues. Perhaps we humans can learn from the canine's willingness and ability to behave in a culturally correct manner. So, I encourage us all to remember to be thankful that God created creatures such as the canine to help we humans with our social skills. Who knew the dog could be such a valuable asset in our human lives?

LOOKING FOR A BEST FRIEND?

Molly is a sweet, friendly female terrier mix estimated to be 9 months old. When she arrived at the shelter, her skin was not in very good condition and she lost most of her fur during the course of treatment. She is doing great now, and her fur is growing out nicely. She is mostly white with black spots. Her face is black with tan highlights.

While Molly was under treatment, she was kept in our clinic area and had little interaction with volunteers or other dogs. In spite of that less than ideal start for her, she is well adjusted now and gets along beautifully with both people and other dogs.

Molly is full of puppy energy and loves to play with toys and other dogs. She has a happy, bubbly personality that will make you smile and laugh at her antics. She and her kennel mate play well together and enjoy each other's company.

Molly loves going on walks and for a young dog, she does very well on leash. She's a smart little girl and will do well with training. She loves mingling with other dogs as well as people. She is very affectionate, and will sit happily in a lap until her energy gets the best of her and she has to get down and play

Molly would do best in an active home where she is an important part of the family and gets a lot of playtime. She would be happy with another dog, and they would be sure to entertain each other. Molly would love to be your new best friend, so please stop by to meet her and see if she would be a good fit for your family.

She currently resides at the San Gabriel Valley Humane Society located at 851 E. Grand Avenue in San Gabriel. We are located off San Gabriel Blvd., north of Mission and south of Las Tunas. To arrange a 'Meet and Greet' with Molly, please stop by any time from 10:00am to 4:30pm Tuesday thru Sunday. Her adoption fee is $120 which includes her spay surgery, a microchip, first vaccinations and a free wellness check-up at a participating veterinarian. Feel free to call us at (626) 286-1159 for more information on Molly.

THE JOY OF YOGA

THE TRUTH

In Sanskrit, the word for truth is Satya. It's one of the most important principles in yoga philosophy. It is one of the principles of the yamas, the moral observances that one must make to prepare for the transformation of yoga as outlined in the Yoga Sutras of Patanjali (the great

To speak the truth, to believe the truth, to be true to yourself, are all essential concepts in self under-standing. But the literal translation of Satya is unchangeable. How is that the truth?

Yogis believe that our deepest, essence IS unchangeable. Because our truest selves, our souls, do not change. But through all of our experiences and the influences of the world ourselves, we develop an understanding of who we think we are or who we think we should be. We see the world reflecting back at us and think that is who we are. This may be completely incongruous from who we are really meant to be. Satya is getting in touch with the truth of our unchanging soul, who we truly are and letting that light shine from our eyes. Then let that light influence the world around us, instead of the other way around.

The study of the Yoga Sutra can help us discover our own unique purpose and our own unique qualities that may have been hidden from our view.

And you thought yoga was just about Downward Facing Dog.

See you in class.

HAVE NEST -- WILL TRAVEL

Retirement is a beautiful thing! Not that I'm looking to retire anytime soon, but it has certainly helped my parents become healthier and happier. My mom's job as a third grade public school teacher was stressful, although she made it look easy to her colleagues. And I sleep better knowing that my dad doesn't have to face two or more hours of traffic on the Ventura freeway trekking to Sherman Oaks every morning.

Now they're homebodies keeping busier than ever with all their projects and hobbies. In fact, my dad was surprised (and a little embarrassed) to receive a discount on his car insurance for putting less than 300 miles on his 1996 Isuzu last year. "I would've put 300 miles on that car in a week when I was working!" he told us. Understandably, his SUV sits in the driveway, unused most of the time. My aunt even pointed out the cobwebs around the wheels. But when he noticed twigs sticking out of the bumper, my dad knew that his vehicle had officially been designated as a permanent stationary

Not only were there sticks protruding from inside the bumper, but something flew out of there when he walked nearer the car. Upon closer inspection, my dad discovered that a bird had started to build a nest inside the rear bumper. He looked carefully to make sure there weren't any eggs or other potential bird casualties. But, if you haven't tried to see the inner corner of your bumper lately, let me tell you it's not an easy task. When I laid down under the car I could see the bottom and side of the nest. Peering into the crack between the bumper and rear of the car allowed a partial view of the top of the nest. But neither angle gave a good shot of the its inhabitants. The first couple times I checked on it I gently poked the nest and a very, very small creature darted out. Once I saw it land on a bush. It was a tiny, delicate finch; not as small as a humming bird, but definitely smaller than a sparrow.

Over the next few days I developed a habit of checking on the nest from time to time. Despite the disruption of being rapidly carried along on my dad's local errands, and being poked a few times with a giant finger, this finch was a stubborn bugger. Nothing would dissuade her from the security of the inside of the bumper. "Doesn't it get hot when you run the car?" I asked my dad. "No hotter than it does sitting there in the sun." he answered. Apparently the heat did nothing to diminish the finch's dogged persistence. I wondered if the fumes would cause mutations, but my dad assured me that the nest wasn't anywhere near the exhaust.

I thought this stowaway bird was unusual in its choice of nesting places until I became more aware of other nests in and around the neighborhood. OSH is a great bird sanctuary, I learned. One brave, and probably deaf, dove hunkered down in her nest on top of the loud speaker. A family of sparrows made their home in front of the air conditioning vents.

My dad's original plan was to dismantle the nest before it really "got going," thereby discouraging the finch from her efforts. We quickly learned that she had no intention of leaving. Needless to say, I quickly stopped poking the nest. I figured, since she was bound and determined to stay there, we should try to make sure her nest stays as stable as possible. Although these certainly aren't ideal conditions, my dad can live with this little passenger for a while--at least until the end of the baby bird season. While we hope she and her kiddos make it through safe and well, we also hope she won't decide to revisit the bumper again next year. And we certainly hope she won't tell her friends that the other rear bumper is available for squatting birds and their families!

HOW DO I GET MY FAMILY EATING HEALTHIER?

My clients ask me this question often. You have decided to get healthier, maybe lose some weight and in doing so you want to eat better. How do you get your family or spouse onboard? The first step is to take the time to plan out your meals for the week. This should be a family affair. Ask your family to search for recipes they would like to try. Then vote on the ones your family will eat for the week. These meals can be easy to make. They may even be some of your family's favorites but just prepared in a different fashion. Say you family likes roasted chicken and sweet potato fries. You could cut your own sweet potatoes into fries and bake them in the oven and grill skinless chicken and mixed veggies on the grill. The key in grilling is to use herbs and seasoning your family likes. In many dishes especially chicken, herbs are where the dish gets its flavor.

Dr. Tina is a traditional naturopath and nutritionist at Vibrant Living Wellness Center

Another option is to go out to a healthy restaurant and have everyone taste each other's food. Then go home and try to recreate the dish in a healthier fashion. Most all dishes prepared from scratch at home are healthier than prepared purchased foods or foods eaten in restaurants because you can omit or reduce sugar, oil, excessive salt and preservatives. You can also chose to use all organic foods as a way to make meals healthier.

Another tip is to visit the produce aisle or a farmers market with your kids. Ask them to pick out interesting or unusual vegetables. Then base the coming weeks menu on your finds. Kids will be more apt to try something new if they scouted it out and saw it before it was clean and prepared.

Whenever possible involve your kids and even husband in the meal planning, purchasing and preparation. The more involved your family is in meal choices the more invested they will become. Also be realistic, not every choice will be a hit but if you put some effort into this, your family can adopt some new healthier food options.

SEAN'S SHAMELESS REVIEWS:

By Sean Kayden

SUMMER SONGS WORTH SEEKING OUT

Strand Of Oaks "Goshen '97" -Philadelphia musician Timothy Showalter who goes by Strand Oaks is set to release his fourth LP, "Heal," on June 24th, 2014.

The first single, "Goshen '97" is a complete departure of his previous material of acoustic, folk-rock jams. The song explodes right from the beginning with a thrashing drumbeat and intense guitar work. J. Mascis from Dinosaur Jr. supplies the superb guitar work. In previous themes, Showalter explored imaginary scenarios such as songs about giants to taking vengeance on John Belushi's drug dealer. However with "Heal," the theme is rooted within his own entity. His lyrics are reflective, but overt. It's a powerful jam from start to finish. It surely would satisfy anyone looking for a good old-fashioned rock song that all appear to be lost in this hazy fog of DJs, synthesizer fanatics.

Blackbird Blackbird - "This Is Nowhere" - San Francisco's Blackbird Blackbird brings his dreamy electronic pop to new heights with "This Is Nowhere," off the upcoming fourth LP, "Tangerine Sky." Mikey Maramag, the man behind Blackbird Blackbird, is a master of smooth, ethereal aesthetics. His crooning falsetto is in full effect on the new song. Maramag has a soft, tender, angelic voice. The hazy, dreamy R&B inspired tune is both elegant and moving. "Tangerine Sky" has summer nights written all over it, but from what I can already tell, it'll fit the bill for any season of the year. The album will be released on June 3rd via OM Records.

Midnight Faces – "Wake Me" – If any song could put you in a hypnotic trance, it would be "Wake Me." The wistful 80s tune takes you on a journey traveling to places you could only wish to go back to. Midnight Faces is an LA-based snyth-pop duo consisting of vocalist Philip Stancil and composer Matthew Doty. "The Fire Is Gone" is the band's sophomore release, following 2013's "Fornication." This second go around, the textures and layers are much richer and darker. The immense emotional landscape of "This Is On Fire" is brimming with youthfulness. You might forget how old you are listening to "Wake Me," but you will ultimately be rejuvenated. "The Fire is Gone" was released on May 13th through Broken Factory.

Broken Records - "Winterless Son" - Scottish indie rockers Broken Records latest tune, "Winterless Son" off their recently released third record "Weights and Pulleys" bursts onto the scene with vitality and enthusiasm. It's a postpunk sort of tune with such a strong driving force of guitars and drums. "Winterless Son" is an anthem motivated song sporting lyrics such as, "We were going to be anything we wanted; We were going to be anywhere but here; And I was going to be anything you needed me to be." The hope to keep on keeping on appears a little more urgent now. Regardless of how you read this tune, this is the kind of song to get you out of the passenger seat of life and buckled into the driver's Wunder Wunder - "Coastline" - The first single, Coastline" off Wunder Wunder's debut record, "Everything Infinite" is a cool little jam that can be described as wavy and groovy. Australian music producers Aaron Shanahan and Benjamin Plant make up Wunder Wunder on their latest creative endeavor. Inspired by 60s and 70s psychedelic rock with a touch of new school licks, "Coastline" is pure summer fun. Wunder Wunder seems to specialize in dreamy guitars and distorted synths. It's not breaking any new ground, but the blessed-out landscape of Wunder Wunder is certainly the place where you'll want to be this summer. "Everything Infinite" is out July 15th via Dovecote Records.

THE BOYS IN THE BOAT: NINE AMERICANS AND THEIR EPIC QUEST FOR GOLD AT THE 1936 BERLIN OLYMPICS

by Daniel James Brown

Out of the depths of the Depression comes an irresistible story about beating the odds and finding hope in the most desperate of times. The improbable, intimate account of how 9 working class boys from the American West showed the world at the 1936 Olympics what true grit really meant. It was an unlikely quest from the start.

With a team composed of the sons of loggers, shipyard workers, and farmers, the University of Washington's eight oar crew team was never expected to defeat the elite teams of the East Coast and Great Britain, yet they did, going on to shock the world by defeating the German team rowing for Adolf Hitler. Drawing on the boys' own journals and vivid memories of a once in a lifetime shared dream, Brown has created an unforgettable portrait of an era, a celebration of a remarkable achievement, and a chronicle of one extraordinary personal quest.

MICHAEL JORDAN: THE LIFE by Roland Lazenby

The definitive biography of a legendary athlete. Michael Jordan is responsible for sublime moments so ingrained in sports history that they have their own names. When most people think of him, they think of his beautiful shots with the game on the line, his body totally in sync with the ball hitting nothing but net. But for all his greatness, this scion of a complex family from North Carolina's Coastal Plain has a darker side: he's a ruthless competitor and a lover of high stakes. There's never been a biography that encom-passed the dual nature of his character and looked so deeply at Jordan on and off the court .Basketball journalist Roland Lazenby spent almost thirty years covering Michael Jordan's career in college and the pros. He witnessed Jordan's growth from a skinny rookie to the instantly recognizable global ambassa-dor for basketball whose business savvy and success have millions of kids still wanting to be just like Mike. Yet Lazenby also witnessed the Michael Jordan whose drive and appetite are more fearsome and more insatiable than any of his fans could begin to know. He draws on his personal relationships with Jordan's coaches; countless interviews with Jordan's friends, teammates, and family members; and in-terviews with Jordan himself to provide the first truly definitive study of Michael Jordan.

THE CLOSER by Mariano Rivera

The greatest relief pitcher of all time shares his extraordinary story of survival, love, and baseball. Mariano Rivera, the man who intimidated thousands of batters merely by opening a bullpen door, began his incredible journey as the son of a poor Panamanian fisherman. When first scouted by the Yankees, he didn't even own his own glove. He thought he might make a good mechanic. When discovered, he had never flown in an airplane, had never heard of Babe Ruth, and spoke no English. What he did know: that he loved his family and then girlfriend, Clara, that he could trust in the Lord to guide him, and that he could throw a baseball exactly where he wanted to, every time. Rivera tells the story of the champion-ships, the bosses, the rivalries, and the struggles of being a Latino baseball player in the United States and of maintaining Christian values in professional athletics. The 13 time All-Star discusses his drive to win; the secrets behind his legendary composure. He discusses the untold, pitch by pitch account of the ninth inning of Game 7 in the 2001 World Series. In The Closer, we come to an even greater appreciation of a legend built from the ground up.

CHANDRA CAPTURES GALAXY SPARKLING IN X-RAYS

NASA's orbiting Chandra X-ray Observatory has revealed a spiral galaxy similar to the Milky Way glittering with hundreds of X-ray points of light.

The galaxy is officially named Messier 51 (M51), but often goes by its nickname of the "Whirlpool Galaxy." Like the Milky Way, the Whirlpool is a spiral galaxy with spectacular arms of stars and dust. It is located 30 million light-years from Earth, and its face-on orientation to Earth gives us a perspective that we can never get of our own spiral galactic home.

The new dataset, equivalent to about 900,000 seconds of Chandra observing time, reveals nearly 500 X-ray sources. In this composite image, the X-ray sources are shown in purple. Optical imagery from the Hubble Space Telescope, shown here in red, green, and blue, has been added.

Most of the X-ray sources are X-ray binaries (XRBs). These systems consist of pairs of objects where a compact star, either a neutron star or, more rarely, a black hole, is capturing material from an orbiting companion star. The infalling material is accelerated by the intense gravitational field of the compact star and heated to millions of degrees, producing a luminous X-ray source.

A difference between the Milky Way and the Whirlpool Galaxy is that M51 is in the midst of merging with a smaller companion galaxy (seen in the upper left of the image). Scientists think this galactic interaction is triggering waves of star formation. The most massive of the newly formed stars will race through their evolution in a few million years and collapse to form neutron stars or black holes. Most of the XRBs containing black holes in M51 are located close to regions where stars are forming, showing their connection to the oncoming galactic collision.

MEANWHILE, BACK IN THE YEAR 1845, an Irish gentleman and amateur stargazer named Lord Rosse was also observing the Whirlpool Galaxy. At his estate, Birr Castle in Parsonstown, County Offaly, he had built what was then the world's largest telescope, with a mirror an amazing six feet (72 inches) in diameter, dubbed "the Leviathan."

He had to invent many of the techniques he used for constructing the Leviathan, both because its size was without precedent and because earlier telescope builders had guarded their secrets or had simply failed to publish their methods. Building of the Leviathan began in 1842 and it was first used in 1845; regular use waited another two years, due to the Great Irish Famine. It was the world's largest telescope, in terms of aperture size, until the early 20th century.

Lord Rosse performed astronomical studies and catalogued a large number of nebulae, discovering the spiral nature of some that are today known as spiral galaxies. In particular, his Leviathan was the first to reveal the spiral structure of M51. As astronomical photography was unknown in the 1840s, he had to record what he saw in sketches—and his drawings of the Whirlpool Galaxy closely resemble modern photographs.

Lord Rosse's historic Leviathan telescope, major monument in the history of astronomy, has been preserved and is still accessible for public tours. For information see:

FAMILY MATTERS

I HATE ESTATE PLANNING

It sounds crazy, I know. An Estate Planning attorney who actually hates the words "estate planning"?

Estate planning most appearance.

Just hear me out. I hate estate planning because it conjures up the image of a bunch of stuffy, old lawyers sitting around a giant conference table, scheming about who's going to kick the bucket next and how to divvy up the inheritance they'll leave behind.

Blech! So let's draw the line right now:

There are two types of 'Estate Planning' attorneys, and they couldn't be more different. From the way they attract and engage clients all the way to their impact on generations yet unborn.

The type of Estate Planning attorneys most people think of belong in the same category as the stereotypical lawyers at the butt-end of jokes. The kind nobody wants to invite over for dinner. The kind nobody wants to deal with for a minute longer than absolutely necessary (because they're nickel and diming anybody and everybody in 6-minute increments).

They eagerly take whoever walks in the door. Sell them a plan they can't understand, and then fail to fund it, update it or ensure that it actually performs for the family in their time of greatest

But let me tell you about the other type. This type of attorney is a lot more like a family friend who also handles the legal technical work of ensuring the families in their community have a solid relationship with their loved ones - and their legacy - that outlasts them for generations

They serve their community by freely educating families who genuinely need the planning they provide. They do a thorough job of discerning the values, vision and needs of these families and business owners. They design estate plans that get funded, are kept up-to-date, and perform as promised upon death. And I am proud to count myself as one of these types of attorneys.

Design," or "Life Consciousness Development," or "Family Legacy Engineering." I wish the word support you in living consciously, proactively, and for this practice area was something profound, fully. intriguing, complex, bold, and intense. Because it is all of those things.

Here's a little secret: Estate planning is a deep spiritual experience for me. My life becomes more fulfilled and connected every time I support their growth and family harmony is extremely rewarding. Plus, it's a service needed by every parent in our country, whether they yet realize it

It helps parents become better people - which in turn makes them better parents. And that's where Estate planning is really an opportunity to meet oneself at the doorway between life and death. As an attorney, I get to escort people to that doorway, help them look back so they can see their accomplishments, their losses—the legacies they've built. I help them see the honor and dignity in their lives and bear witness to the essence of who they are.

Then together we look toward the future; their hopes, dreams, aspirations and vision for themselves and their families. Then I interject the worst-case scenarios and help them work through it all. It's important work because the worst things that can happen are the only things that stand between their past and their future.

Then (and this is where the lawyer in me emerges) I help them understand the legal landscape and offer perspective on how things are versus how things could be. I give my clients a chance to choose the road their family will take if they aren't there to guide them. Consciously, thoroughly, thoughtfully.

Fear lifts. Freedom enters. Liberation of heart and mind settles in.

And my clients are no longer afraid. No longer afraid to die, no longer afraid to live.

People tell me all the time that their experience with estate planning was nothing like they expected. They say they had no idea the burden they were carrying until it was lifted. They say they feel freer, clearer, more in love, and more alive. They come away from the experience more at ease and comfortable then they've been in a long time.

To help liberate another human from their fears and free them to live a bigger life. How sacred, how awesome, is that?!

It's why I love what I do. And I would be thrilled to transform the way you look at estate planning, too. To guide you along the path toward ensuring your family will be protected and provided for. Estate planning, the way my camp practices it, would better be called something like "Legal Life" mind knowing things will be as easy as possible for your loved ones during the worst of times. To

Tips of the Trade: Real Estate Revealed by Luther Tsinoglou

MYTH BUSTING

When a homeowner faces default on their mortgage, there may be two options: foreclosure or short sale. Foreclosure can be devastating, both emotionally and financially. A short sale, or one in which the lender accepts a selling price less than the amount owed, is a better option for both the lender and the homeowner.

Regrettably, nearly seven out of ten homeowners proceed through foreclosure without ever listing their home for sale. This is due largely to perceived myths about the process, and we need to put a few of these misconceptions to rest.

First, homeowners assume the bank would rather foreclose than accept a short sale. Not true foreclosure is often more costly for the lender, and short sales often sell for more than foreclosed listings. The banks are trying anything pos-sible, within reason, to avoid the foreclosure process.

Next, homeowners believe there is a stigma attached to short sale listings, and that buyers have no interest in such properties. Not true - to the contrary, many smart buyers are specifically seeking out such offerings for the value they present compared to traditional listings.

Finally, homeowners often assume that there's not enough time to close a short sale before foreclosure is final. Not true - foreclosure is a lengthy process and there is time to negotiate a better result, but you need to start today.

A Social Media Tip Sheet is a 1-2 page document or page on a website. It provides the content you want people to share for you in their own social media channels. It may also include images, logos and videos.

When you create a tip sheet, make sure to include the following:

- Description of the campaign
- Hashtags to use
- Sample Facebook posts (tags back to your schedule page or links to your web site)

- If you want people to Sample Tweets with hashtags and tags
 - URL's for important information
 - YouTube videos
 - Graphics, logos or images
 - Give them a reason why they should help you promote your campaign
 - Make sure to promote and send your tip sheets to your connections and the people who will most likely want to help you spread the word.

Remember the last time you lost your cell automatically. This way you don't even have to phone... what did you say to yourself? If you're like me, you said "I'm backing up my data from now on!" Have you?

Imagine you had to rebuild your whole contacts list. How many contacts would that be? How many hours would you need to spend? All wasted time. And if you're like most entrepreneurs, you don't have much to spare.

Take this minute to think back... when was the last time you backed up your computer? Your cell phone? Your pictures?

Schedule it right now. Put it in the calendar. Turn it into an intention, and it will most likely get done. It's not only smart but there's peace. Once complete, you will have covered yourself should anything unexpected happen. Well, you never know... that's the downside of technology. But you can be prepared... that's the upside.

So, backing up... it's simply generating a second copy of your data and storing it at a second location. If you do it regularly, pat yourself on the back. Good job! Celebrate your due diligence. If you've never backed up your data or don't do it regularly, consider making it a monthly practice. How about the first of every month? Be sure to reward yourself after you're done.

If you're not tech savvy, hire someone. I like Peter at Foothill Tech in Sierra Madre (626-355-5152). He can program your equipment to back-up 91024) I write every other week.

I recently left my cell phone behind for the second time. When I considered it lost, I freaked. This time I WILL back it up. Why this time? I'm stopping this writing to write it in my planner. I'm scheduling it. And when I set the intention by scheduling it, I eventually do it.

What works for you? We're all different. It comes down to establishing a system... a system that brings success for you. Maybe you book to-dos in your phone (if you have it).

Try a reward. Maybe a pedicure. Five minutes to call a friend. Or a Starbucks gift card for yourself. We all like treats... no matter our age. Target something that will motivate you.

If just half the employed U.S. population spent $50 each month in independently owned businesses, their purchases would generate more than $42.6 billion in revenue.* Imagine the positive impact if 3/4 of the employed population did that.

For every $100 spent in independently owned stores, $68 returns to the community through taxes, payroll, and other expenditures. If you spend that in a national chain, only $43 stays here. Spend it online and nothing comes home

An Independents Eye OBAMA SHOWS VULNERABILITY OVER PRISONER EXCHANGE

To this day there's some dispute over who originated the phrase 'grabbed defeat from the jaws of victo-ry." What is certain is we're now seeing living examples of the phrase, demonstrated by both the Obama administration and the Republican Party.

Victory's jaws are surely sore from the pulls by Obama & Co. and the GOP in a controversial prisoner exchange, where American Sgt. Bowe Bergdahl was traded for five Taliban prisoners from Guantanamo. We now see six prisoners free -- and how political hubris creates a seemingly inescapable prison.

For Republicans, the controversy has all the makings of a negatively-defining event that could sway in-dependent voters and irk some centrist Democrats. Not only does it entail the American government dealing with, if not outright terrorists, then terrorist enablers and supporters, the prisoner exchange itself might have legitimately broken the law. On top of that, it includes the release of a prisoner who some claim wasn't worthy of the soldiers who risked or lost their lives unsuccessfully trying to free him years ago.

The deal's implementation displays a political dumbness on the part of the White House that hasn't been seen since last October when Texas Republican Sen. Ted Cruz convinced GOPers in Congress that it'd be just peachy for Republicans to shut down the government over the budget. According to NBC's Chuck Todd, the White House was caught "flat footed" by the negative response to the Bergdahl deal, since it had expected "euphoria" over

Yes, Bergdahl was freed. But it sounds like someone was drinking the same Delusion Flavored Kool Aid that former Vice President Dick Cheney successfully served when he predicted Iraqis would greet their American liberators by throwing flowers and garlands.

The administration didn't properly consult Congress. California Democratic Sen. Diane Feinstein wasn't pleased, and the White House briefing of Senators later didn't defuse bipartisan anger. The Obama ad-ministration argued the deal had to be done quickly and was legally covered in a signing statement. And, indeed, the political reality is that any announced dealings would have fizzled due to the consist-ently obstructionist behavior. But the administration acted on shaky legal grounds.

CNN legal analyst Jeffrey Toobin said

President Obama "clearly" broke the law because "signing state-ments are not law. Signing statements are the president's opinion about what the law should mean. Now, it may be that the law is unconstitutional, a violation of his power as commander in chief, but no court has held that. The law is on the books, and he didn't follow it."

University of Georgetown law professor Jonathan Turley nailed it on his blog, writing: "Putting aside the violation of federal law, do you believe that the United States should negotiate with groups like the Tali-ban or make trades with such captors? If not, where do we draw the line with soldiers to exclude citi-zens? There are clearly arguments to be made by those who believe that we should negotiate with terror-ists but the current official policy is that we do not."

So the GOP is poised to score big political points? Probably not.

After being in 24/7 anti-Obama rage/ demonization mode for so many years, even with having a REAL issue fall into their lap that has authentic nuance that could alienate many Americans by raising troubling issues as terrorists seek weaknesses to advance their battle against democracies, the Republican Party is in already rhetorical, overreach overdrive.

Almost as fast as you could say "birth certificate" or "Benghazi," the inevitable partisanship parroting the tiresomely conservative predictable political entertainment media and the calls for impeachment have begun.

Amid genuine questions about whether Bergdahl was a deserter, one conservative site calls him "the Democratic party's ideal type soldier." So much for winning over centrist Democrats. A Fox News host said Bergdahl's father looks like a Muslim due to his beard, while Sarah Palin said she'd like "Duck Dyn-asty's" bearded anti-gay Phil Robertson to run for President. A beard's meaning is in the eye of the big-ot.

If the GOP could choose serious policy discussion over polemics, they could score serious political points. But Republicans, like the White House, just can't resist pulling that bright, shiny object out of victory's mouth.

A Weekly Religion Column by Rev. James Snyder

THE WAR ON COMMON SENSE

Listening to news programs, particularly yakity-yak-my-viewis-the-only-right-view programs you might come away with the idea that there might come away with the idea that there is a war on everything.

The list goes something like this, the war on: Women... Poverty... Drugs... Terrorist and on and on I could go. You name it, there is a war addressed. I believe we should be serious about dealing with certain negative aspects of society and do whatever it takes to make people's lives better. I am all for those ideas, however, I sometimes think it goes just a little too far sometimes think it goes just a little too far.

Most of the time, someone is for a certain "war" because of some political advantage it will give them in the public's eye. I guess you cannot be a politician unless you are willing to poke somebody in the eye!

Is it just me or have you noticed people will create a war on something just to get in the limelight? They are not against something they just know someone is; that someone is someone that goes to the polls and votes, and they want their vote. Do not let this thought get too far, but

I think it would be a whole lot cheaper during election time for politicians just to write checks and send out to all the voters saying, "Here's $1,000, vote for me." It would be a lot cheaper in the long run and who couldn't use $1,000 right about now.

This war I am speaking of is rather covert and does not get any time on the national or cable news. Everybody knows it is going on but nobody wants to point it out. That is, up until now.

The greatest war going on in our society today is the war on common sense. There, I said it. And I stand by what I said. There is a tremendous attack on common sense in our society today.

Perhaps somebody could argue that there has never been a time in our history where we had too much common sense. That may be true, but it seems that people today are going out of their way to make common sense nonsense.

I must confess that common sense is not as common as it once was and perhaps never was. I like to think that somewhere along the line a few good people have entertained

There are so many laws in our land these days that it is impossible keep up with them all. There must be a law somewhere particularly in Washington, DC that says any law that makes sense has to be immediately thrown out. We have politicians that would not recognize common sense if it bit them on the nose. Most politicians have their nose in other people's business anyway.

It would be nice if just some time these politicians would simply come together and establish a law, merely one law that makes sense. In order to make one law that makes sense they have to have 999 other laws that confuse it to such a degree that it no longer makes sense.

Common sense would tell me, for example, if I do not have enough money I cannot purchase a certain thing. That does not work in Washington. Öh no. In Washington, affording something financially is never part of the equation. The only thing important in that equation is, does this make somebody who voted for me happy enough to vote for me again?

It takes a lot of good old-fashioned common sense to take care of money and run my household budget in such a way that the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage is happy. Taking care of money and making sure that we do not spend money on things we do not need is part of the common sense that helps me balance my checkbook month after month.

Common sense says I need to balance my

Washington sense says, write checks until you have no more checks to write then order more checks. Forget all that stuff about balance. If we run out of money, we just print more money.

Does that really make sense?

It would be great if I could do that with my home budget. If I do not have enough money one month all I need to do is go down into the basement and print a bunch of money to make up the difference.

Not only is common sense eliminated from the financial aspects of our country, but health issues are also thrown to the

Common sense would tell me I need to eat

Washington sense says, eat what I tell you to eat. I have seen some of the stuff that they, the government, wants us to eat. The government wants to come into our school cafeterias and force-feed our children a

In most of these schools, I cannot speak for all of them, the children have the common sense to throw it away. Common sense says if it does not look good or taste good it probably ain't good for you. (Pardon my French.)

The Bible has a lot to say about this. My favorite verse of Scripture is, "Therefore to him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin" (James 4:17).

I need to make common sense the standard of my day-to-day living based upon the common teaching of the Word sitting rascals out and let a new gang in." - H.L.

Elections are held in Egypt, Syria and the United States all within a couple weeks of each other. There's the tradition in Syria of bringing a needle to the polls – you prick your finger to show you'll support your candidate with blood. In Egypt, they held polls open an extra day – hoping enough voters would show up to make it seem legit.

Here in California, the question was whether Gov. Brown would be going up against the guy who forgot about the loaded gun in his carry-on at the airport; or the one who, when testifying before a House committee in his role as "Bailout Czar", couldn't say whether or not it was "appropriate" that AIG gave out $3 million executive bonuses after getting a $125 billion taxpayer bailout,.

There's been other news. After the tragic shootings in Isla Vista, there were the preemptive moves against legislation that might help keep guns away from those who shouldn't have them (like maybe those who'd forget about having a loaded gun in their

There was the freeing of our only POW still held from the Afghanistan/Iraq wars. Within a couple days, Republican operative (and Fox News contributor) Richard Grenell, through his PR firm, was arranging media appearances for soldiers suggesting he should've been left there.

Republicans warned of the danger should the five Guantanamo detainees released in exchange return to the battlefield. Statistics from the Office of the Director of National Intelligence show that 6% (a total of five) of the detainees released under President Obama have indeed resumed the fight. This compares with 30% of the 500-some detainees released under President Bush.

Then there's the Obama Administration plan to reduce carbon dioxide emissions from coal plants by 30% from 2005 levels by 2030. We're already halfway there; they've already been reduced 15% since 2005. Sen. Mike Enzi (R-WY) warns the plan would "kill coal and its 800,000 jobs". (The National Mining Association counts 90,000 mining jobs in the whole country.) Sen. Rand Paul (R-KY) calls it an "illegal use of executive power", while the Supreme Court in both 2007 and 2011 affirmed the EPA's duty to regulate carbon pollution as it "endangers public health or

Of course, there's the cost – up to $8 billion. The EPA estimates up to $90 billion in health savings from lower risks of asthma, lung disease, heart attacks, etc. Still, it promises to be a major campaign issue in the coming months, with Republicans going to the mat over preventing our current dependency on coal for 37% of our electricity from falling to maybe 31%.

But back to the elections. If there was any "trend" nation-wide, it was Republican things done.

"By the time election day "establishment" candidates prevailing over the tea-baggers. They may not be as colorful, much to do save turn the and there may not be as many efforts to impeach the president, repeal Obamacare (like they've tried some fifty times already), or to permit open-carry of firearms in bars, playgrounds and churches, but that doesn't mean there's any less determination in pursuit of an agenda.

Although not as newsy as stories mentioned above, there were others involving this "establishment" wing of the party that give a good indication as to what's at stake come

The Republican National Committee is calling for the repeal of not Obamacare, but the Foreign Account Tax Compliance Act. Like the Affordable Care Act, the FATCA was passed early in the administration and is now about to come into effect, It's the result of long negotiations with banks in Switzerland, the Cayman Islands, etc. - in which they've agreed to help the IRS crack down on tax cheats who hide their stashes overseas. This cheating costs our treasury about $300 billion a year - nearly a tenth of our annual budget. The RNC, however, is more concerned about its unpopularity with its donor base - and so will commit to its repeal.

Likewise, the Republican Congress continues working to cut hundreds of millions from the enforcement budgets of not only the IRS, but from the SEC and Commodities Futures Trading Commissions the two agencies most responsible under the Wall Street reform acts for clamping down on the reckless trading and ridiculous profits that brought our Great Recession. As for the IRS and those offshore accounts, every dollar spent on enforcement brings $6.60 back to our Treasury; for international business compliance, it brings $8.80. With those millions in cuts, you can do the math.

For months, House Republicans have blocked efforts to raise the federal minimum wage or renew unemployment insurance. Last week, they blocked a bill that would have prevented the federal government from contracting with outfits known to engage in wage theft; denying overtime pay or forcing employees to work off the clock in violation of the Fair Labor Standards Act. They claimed the bill was too difficult to understand.

Last week, Republicans on the House Ways and Means Committee pushed through another batch of tax breaks figured to add $300 billion to our deficit over the next decade, in addition to the $300 billion in loopholes passed the month before. Most, like "bonus depreciation", were put in place as "temporary" stimulus to spur the recovery, but now they want to make them permanent. As for programs like food stamps, unemployment insurance and disaster relief, Republicans insist they be "paid for" with cuts elsewhere. With "bonus depreciation", however, that can simply be tacked onto our nation's debt as a gift to their corporate

This "establishment" crowd isn't as colorful as the tea-baggers, and won't be as much fun to follow over the next several months. They are all the more concerning, however - because they sometimes know how to get

A BERGDAHL IN THE HAND IS WORTH FIVE TERRORISTS

There's a lot of controversy swirling and around Obama's decision to trade five hardened terrorists for American Sergeant Bergdahl, among which is the concern The President acted illegally by insufficiently consulting Congress. As a conservative, I support Obama's right, as Commanderin-Chief, to make this decision without consultation. I defended Bush in this regard, and I'll defend Obama, too. But that doesn't mean it was a good decision. In fact, it may go down as the worst decision this president, this Commander-in-Chief, has

The President clearly thinks this was a good decision, offering first that Bergdahl's health was so badly deteriorated that repatriating him was necessary, but the more compelling, and overriding, reason he offered was that "regardless of the circumstances, we still get an American soldier back if he's held in captivity, period. Full stop. We don't condition that". So really, in the President's mind, whether Bergdahl was healthy or not, there are no conditions placed on repatriating our Except, there are conditions, and always have been in every war or skirmish we've fought. There have to be. To believe otherwise is simply a manifestation of typical Liberal naiveté - we will act as we want the world to be, not as it really is. Consider the following illustration. What if we had captured Adolph Hitler? Would we have traded him back for any number of American POWs? Or if we had captured any of the 9-11 murdering hijackers, would any be released to retrieve any number of American hostages? The answer to both is of course, no! There are limits placed on any trade - limits that balance the benefits against the costs to insure that America benefits. If it is to be done, it must be a sober and purposeful decision.

The benefit here is clear to the Bergdahl family, and I wish them no ill. They have their son back. We can all empathize with that. Any family who has lost a loved one, or faces the risk of losing a loved one, wants that person safe and sound. And it is these forgotten people who will now bear the horrendous cost of this trade.

The trade once again trashes America's reputation. The President has affirmed we will not negotiate with terrorists. Yes we will! The President said that the 5 released terrorists will be kept in Qatar and monitored for a year. No they won't! Qatar says they're free to roam and free to return to Afghanistan or any other hot spot for that matter. In case our friends needed more reasons to doubt us and our enemies fewer reasons to fear us, the Bergdahl trade further undermines our credibility and emboldens our enemies.

The trade has and will cost the military dearly. Releasing 5 terrorists for 1 apparent deserter, even as we leave stranded a brave Marine in Mexico, devastates morale recruitment Those who have already born the load will now bear a heavier one in their knowledge that their service is so underappreciated.

what of the men who lost their lives trying to "rescue" Sergeant Bergdahl? When the facts of his "departure" were finally known, a mare hazardous rescue mission was appropriately aborted lest more men die. To their families, we simply say, "suck it up and salute"? We will add 5 more to the ranks of those who will execute further American deaths.

The trade should also prompt us to acknowledge the other westerners who will bear the cost of escalating kidnappings around the world. If the U.S. will trade one soldier deserter for 5 hardened terrorists, what might the U.S., or an even weaker western nation, surrender for 10 or 15 kidnapped innocent civilians? Anyone who believes these boundaries will not be tested by Al Qaeda or the Taliban is dreaming.

Lastly, the trade has made the world a more dangerous place and insured that thousands more all over the globe will suffer. The GITMO 5 who were repatriated to the killing sands of the Mideast are all hardened killers serving in senior Taliban leadership positions – among them a military commander, defense minister, intelligence minister, liaison to Iran; all with the blood of thousands on their hands. These senior terrorist leaders are not going to return to their fields and orchards to raise their families in peace and brotherly love. They will resume the torture, murder and crimesagainst-humanity which landed them in GITMO and should have been sufficient to keep them there for the remainder of their

These men were not simply soldiers under another flag, fighting honorably while steadfastly observing the nuances of the laws of war to protect noncombatants. They didn't wear uniforms to identify themselves, purposely hid among civilians to put them at risk, and steadfastly refuse to consider any westerner a non-combatant. As they've repeatedly, and painfully, reminded us, their version of Islam declares all kafirs (non-believers) to be combatants. They will rampage, slaughter and maim again. We cannot begin to estimate the number of souls who will bear the cost of this trade.

Was The President authorized to make this trade? Intellectual honesty demands we answer yes. No matter the wording of the statute, the Constitution grants this power to the Commander-in-Chief. I won't deny that just because Obama is president. Was the trade a catastrophe of as yet unfathomed global proportions? Unquestionably, yes. Worst decision of his presidency? God, I hope so. If there's something worse than this, I don't want to know.

WHAT ON 98

June 9 - June 15, 2014

Texas Brooklyn and Heaven is playing Monday Morning at 9:00 a.m.

Released on July 16, 1948: A Texas boy and a Texas girl find success, happiness and each other in far away Brooklyn, New York.

This is a 'feel-good' comedy that is just perfect for that rainy afternoon when you want to sit back and forget about the world around you. A boy from Texas and a girl from Texas travel to New York City to find themselves, and in Brooklyn they discover an odd menagerie of lovable characters that brings them all together. And you couldn't want a better cast of 'characters.'

Audie Murphy was the most decorated soldier in WWII, and after the war had a very successful movie career - you will see him in his first screen appearance as the copy boy in the first few minutes of the show.

Jesse White was the first 'lonely Maytag repairman' in television commercials of the 1950's and 1960's - you will see him as the drunk customer who hears this story from bartender James Dunn.

I remember Lionel Stander as the gravel-throated side-kick in the television detective show, "Hart to Hart" - in this movie he is the bookie-bell hop.

William Frawley was 'Fred' of Fred and Ethel, neighbors to I Love Lucy - here he is a successful Broadway producer.

Margaret Hamilton was the wicked witch of the west in the Wizard of Oz, and here she is one of three eccentric old maids.

Irene Ryan was Granny Clampett in The Beverly Hillbillies television show, and another of the three eccentric old maids.

There are plenty more familiar faces in this 'he chases her until she catches him' comedy, but you'll just have to pop your bowl of white kernel popcorn, drizzle on the real melted butter, and sit back to enjoy this comedy with all of your old movie friends.

FYI

A Kensington tribute to the Dad in your life

e's been your rock and your soft place to fall. He's been your teacher, your buddy, your greatest fan. He's the guy who tied shoelaces, carved turkeys, built treehouses, taught you to drive and maybe even, served his country. He had love in his heart, a joke up his sleeve and a twinkle in his eye. He still does. He's your Dad, a one-of-a-kind guy who makes the world brighter, just because he's in it.

To all the fathers in your life and ours, we honor you.
