LOCAL ATHLETES CELEBRATE BIG WINS ON WORLD STAGE

AREA YOUTH MAKE USA TEAM AND GET THE GOLD

USA Water Polo Cadet Men's Team goes undefeated in Serbia

Three local athletes are breaking water polo records and achieving dreams by all three being named to the USA National Cadet Water Polo Team and then going undefeated to win Gold. The athletes from left to right: George Avakian (Center) of Glendale, Nolan Krutonog (Goalie) of Beverly Hills and Nico Tierney (Center Defender) of Sierra Madre, are all members of Premier Water Polo Club (www. premierwaterpolo.com) and students at Harvard-Westlake High School.

With their teammates from around USA the athletes traveled to Serbia to compete in the Darko Cucik Memorial Tournament August 15-21 in Belgarde, Serbia. On Sunday, the USA Cadet Men's National Team won the Gold medal at the Tournament in Serbia following a 9-6 victory over Croatia. The win capped a 7-0 run at the tournament that included victories over Serbia, Croatia, Australia and the Netherlands.

Team USA once again relied on defense and goaltending to hold Croatia to just one goal in the second half of the championship final. George Avakian lead all Team USA scorers with three goals, followed by Ethan Parrish of Santa Barbara and Tanner Pulice of Orange County who added two each. Tierney scored one. Nolan Krutonog did the job in net turning aside 17 shots. Team USA and Croatia were even through the first quarter tied at 2-2 before Croatia took a 5-4 advantage at halftime. The United States took control in the second half holding Croatia scoreless in the third quarter as they rallied with two goals for a 6-5 lead. They surged ahead in the fourth outscoring Croatia 3-1 on the way to the 9-6 lead. picture attached # # # If you would like more information about this topic, please contact www.USAwaterpolo.org

SAN GABRIEL VALLEY WOMEN MAKE THEIR MARK! The 2017 Solhiem Cup, played at The Des Moines

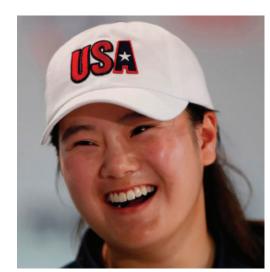

Country Club, which matched the best women golfers from Europe against the best American female golfers. The event was pure excitement from the opening ceremony to its closing. It was the most intense sporting event that this writer ever attended, and including being present at Dodgers' stadium when Gibson limped out of the dugout and hit the homerun that sparked the Dodgers to their last World Series victory. That series paled compared to the three days of golf that European and American women provided for their fans.

It is impossible to give a blow by blow account but let me start by explaining the event. The Solhiem Cup is played biannually, alternating venues between the US and Europe. In 2015 it was hosted by the European women and played in Germany and the US won. This year it was hosted by the United States and played in Des Moines, Iowa. If you are a golf fan it is enough to say that it is the Ryder Cup for Women. Each team is composed of twelve players, and they play a variety of games.

The USA went into Sundays' final Single matches leading Europe 10.5 to 5.5, needing 3.5 points to retain the cup and 4.0 points for an outright victory. On Sunday, all twelve players from each side played, thus the total points available was twelve.

The first match on Sunday was Lexi Thompson (USA) vs. Anna Nordqvist (EU). Lexi had been unstoppable all week. On Saturday Lexi and American Cristie Kerr led their opponents by two after seven holes. The amazing thing was that at one point in the match Lexie was eight under, having recorded six birdies and an eagle. (Note to nongolfers - that is amazingly great golf). Howver, the two of them were only up by two as the European team was matching them birdie for birdie - absolutely incredible golf. However, Sunday was a new day and Anna Nordqvist had Lexi down four thru the Gabriel Valley and they were the points that secured first four holes. On the back nine Lexi righted the the victory for the USA. Angel Yin an 18-yearship ending the match with a half point. Since Lexi was the first match of the day it was important that she put points on the board for the USA. She did so in dramatic fashion recording four birdies and eagle point, making the point total for the USA 13.5. Yin on the back nine. When the first match finished the Thorough TA is position for a guaranteed win. to win).

European team then had to contend with Paula She lost 17 but made the winning putt on 18 hole Both of whom won their matches, and now the USA giving the American team the victory! The final was at 13 points. (At this Solhiem Cup Crisite Kerr the rest of players had smooth sailing! IT WAS became winningest USA competitor in the cups, the rest of p AWESOME! history with 21 total career points.)

score read USA 11, Europe 6. (You need 14 points and it was certain that one of them would at least get another half point for the outright win). Playing one With Lexi's half point the USA needed to get to group behind Angel was former USC Trojan from 14 to retain the cup and 14.5 to win outright. The Cup. REMEMBRANCES

GENEVIEVE STUBBS

When Genevieve Stubbs joined the Woman's Club in 1998, one of the first things she did was take on the responsibility for our annual Fall Fundraiser - the Craft Faire, which continued until attendees shifted focus to something else. Between these annual events, and since she only lived a couple blocks down Sunnyside, the Wistaria Thrift Shop became her second home. She loved being both prep crew (housewares, jewelry & Uncle Bill's) and retail crew, and brought her clear sense of fashion and delight with her everywhere. During the big shop events – Reopening, Holiday and Spring Extravaganzas and Brown Bag Sale - she was a primary spirit for the "end of day / end of event" supper socials, just down the street at her so-lovely house. For the December Holiday Boutiques, her jams, jellies and pickles were among the first items to sell, and she loved helping with the Trail Race.

When her daughter, Rosemary Morabito, joined the club in 2007 and got involved in the Thrift Shop, then becoming its Board Liaison, moving into becoming our club's President in 2010, Memorial services for Sierra Madre resident, Carl Foote are tentatively scheduled for late September - Early October says a source close to the family.

Foote's body was found by Sierra Madre Search and Rescue two weeks ago near Jones Creek in Bailey Canyon. Additional information on services in his memory will be forthcoming.

"I'd seen a great many partial eclipses, but a partial eclipse has the same relation to a total eclipse as flirting with a man does to marrying him. It's completely different." Annie Dillard

"Once upon a time I was falling in love but now I'm only falling apart. There's nothing I can do, a total eclipse of the heart." Bonnie Tyler

Monday! First total eclipse of the sun in a while. In case you didn't know, in the period of 1901 to 2000, there were 228 solar eclipses across the globe, including 71 total eclipses. We, having attempted to buy glasses at Best Buy a little too late, watched it on TV, while the rest of the world was out there actually seeing it. Well, there's going to be another one in 2024 and we'll get our glasses in plenty of time to get out there. It was really neat to see all the school kids out on their playgrounds viewing this event.

This total eclipse made me think of "Little Shop of Horrors," one of my favorite movies, starring Rick Moranis, Steve Martin, Bill Murray and a bunch of other talented folks. You remember, nerdy Skid Row flower shop assistant, Seymour, longs for coworker, Audrey, who is dating "a dentist, a semisadist." Seymour discovers an unusual plant, which he names Audrey II, which only thrives on a diet of human flesh and blood. As I recall, Seymour buys the plant for $1.99 during a total eclipse of the sun. Steve Martin as the dentist is hysterical and Levi Stubbs as the voice of the insatiable, carnivorous Audrey II is wonderfully creepy. If you haven't seen it, treat

Speaking of school kids, our Texas girls, Jessie and Emily, started 4th and 2nd grade and their mommy and a bunch of her mommy friends celebrated by having a Margarita party, which I thought was exceptionally cool. Actually, there has been a huge sigh of relief all over the place as schools have recommenced. St. Rita's is still under construction and I think they kick off their new school year after

Tuesday, my best walking buddy, John, and I, came across this nifty Free Library setting, complete with a bench to enjoy your book. I love these things and am so delighted every time I see one. After encouraging the ever-obliging John to take a seat on the bench, he quickly discovered that it was awash in dew...and so was he! Also, Tuesday, a landmark event: I enjoyed the last two figs on our fig tree. They were exquisite and I was delighted to have beaten the squirrels to most of our fig crop. High Five!

Had dinner with our Huntington Beach son, also John, at Only Place In Town Café and enjoyed sitting outside and relaxing with this neat guy, sans family. A little reminiscing over the fish tacos and BBQ beef sandwich included a great story about getting a ticket from a motorcycle policeman back when he was but a boy, for making a U-turn in a business district. John and I laughed heartily and allowed as how we watch people on a daily basis do this all over the place with complete impunity! Anyhow, as the officer was writing his ticket, John noticed an ant crawling on playwrightdd his helmet. He politely pointed this out to the cop and asked if it would be OK if he flicked it off. After taking a long hard look at our son, he consented, the ant was flicked and the ticket handed over. This was the first time we had heard this story. Just one of those little secrets your children keep from you... fortunately! There's a lot we don't need to know.

What has happened to T-Neer?? Going down there tomorrow to take a look as that was such a lovely, gracious place here in our city. We were so very sad to hear of Carl Foote's death and send our love and sympathy to his family and friends.

Did you happen to read "All Things" by Jeff Brown in the Mountain Views News last week? If you didn't, go online and read it...that wonderful story of the 80 people on Panama City Beach in Florida, forming a human chain to save a family of 9 from the riptide. This will warm your heart and give you hope! Page B2 - www.mtnviewsnews.com Stay cool, dear friends and neighbors, the heat is returning!

A Noise Within Premieres 'A Tale of Two Cities'

Performing September 3 through November 19.

A Noise Within (ANW) presents the first production of its 26th season, the United States premiere of Tonywinner Mike Poulton's thrilling adaptation of A Tale of Two Cities by Charles Dickens, directed by co-producing directors Rodriguez-Elliott and Geoff Elliott, performing September 3 through November 19.

A Tale of Two Cities' opening lines are among the most famous in all Western literature: "It was the best of times, it was the worst of times ... it was the spring of hope, it was the winter of despair." More than 200 million copies of the book have been purchased - making it the second bestselling single-volume of all time (the first is Cervantes' Don Quixote, the basis of ANW's spring 2017 hit Man of La Mancha).

Julia Rodriguez-Elliott said, "Poulton has given the theatre a bold, fast-paced adaptation. He breathed new life into the classic novel, a taut political thriller that feels so immediate, so exciting, so theatrical, and so wonderfully alive for audiences. It's a roller coaster of romance and adventure, without losing the rich characterizations and Dickens' eloquent language." Tickets for A Tale of Two Cities, starting at $25, are available online at anoisewithin.org and by phone by calling 626-356-3100. A Noise Within is located on the corner of Foothill Boulevard and Sierra Madre Villa Avenue at 3352 East Foothill Blvd., Pasadena, CA 91107, just north of the Madre Street exit off the 210.

County to Establish a Public Safety Commission

On a motion by Supervisors Kathryn Barger and Janice Hahn, last week, the Board of Supervisors voted 3-0, Supervisor Ridley-Thomas abstaining, to establish a "Blue Ribbon Commission on Public Safety" to explore innovative solutions to criminal justice challenges resulting from statewide

"Working together, this vital commission will help us achieve our goal of delivering meaningful treatment programs as well as enhancing public safety," said Supervisor Barger. "This is not just about the tragedy of losing Officer Boyer or Sergeant Owen, it's also about the many young lives lost due to drug addiction who are not receiving the help they need and deserve."

This is not a referendum on voter-approved statewide criminal justice reforms," said Supervisor Hahn. "This will be a conversation about the mechanics of making the reforms we do have work better and improving outcomes for both formerly incarcerated individuals and public safety."

The motion builds on a previous motion unanimously approved by the Board on February 21, 2017 which was also authored by Supervisors Barger and Hahn. February motion requested a report on the murder of Whittier Police Officer Keith Boyer by a "Post Released Supervised Person," including an historical analysis of the gunman's involvement with the state parole system, his probation supervision, as well as recommendations for policies and procedures to help identify risk factors and ensure the highest level of public safety.

IN THE MOMENT

Learning to Live From A Pup's Perspective

Progress is paramount. One of the most influential aspects of my daily life is the time I spend with the kind canines I am so fortunate to have befriended over the past 7+ years I've been pet sitting and dog walking. Although I do consider myself very blessed to have several trueblue two-legged pals, I can honestly say that few are the human companions I have who can boast the attitudes of sheer gratitude that I find among my furry four-footed friends.

Nothing eases internal tension like walking a grateful dog. It's like cutting butter with a hot knife. I wake up in the morning, happy to be alive and feeling good for the most part. But by the time I walk out the door to embark on my day of dog walking, I have dodged the darts of negativity dealt by the media I've tuned into. (Why I subject myself to such grief is beyond me). I've mentally combated an entourage of talking heads who thrive on sharing wicked tales of harsh reality from capital hill to a crime-ravaged dark alley in an urban sprawl, and I've miraculously navigated my way through this time of year's school traffic to make it to my first destination. I am feeling the stresses of everyday human life.

In my best attempt to shake off the would-be heavy cloud that might otherwise overwhelm me, I get out of my car and while approaching my first client's house I begin to pray. I thank God for the opportunity to live. Just to live. That should be enough, as life in and of itself is such an amazing gift. But there is more to be grateful for so I continue my prayer with sincere thanks for the chance to be part of a community that, in my opinion, is socially nourishing and aweinspiring. I then finish my prayer in thanks to God for the beautiful beasts He allows me to walk alongside each day and I ask Him to guide our every step.

The tension begins to melt away. When I enter the door I am greeted by a more over-the-top enthusiastic, fun-loving, energetic, carefree individual than a fiction writer could even begin to attempt to conjure up as a character in a whimsical nursery tale. But this is not fiction. This is my reality - every day! The dog embellishes me with his unique brand of hairy hugs and canine kisses, I leash him as quickly as possible through the exciting chaos, and off we go on our way. As we commence our journey, his enthusiasm remains at a level higher than mine will probably ever be in this lifetime, as he walks on the same trail we walked just the day before. To him, it is all brand new...every single day. To him, that blade of grass he just sniffed - the same one he sniffed yesterday - was like a little bit of heaven that he'd never sniffed before. To him, that light breeze that just passed through the trees was like the feeling I felt as a kid when 📗

A couple of years ago I decided it was time to take the roller coaster dropped from top to bottom on it's tracks. To him, that cat in the neighbor's yard was put there just for his own personal entertainment, no other reason whatsoever. And to him, nothing else

> He is in the moment. There are no concerns about what took place yesterday. There is no stress about what he should be getting done in lieu of taking a walk. There is no urgency to finish it up and get to the next task. There are no thoughts of regret, no angst over memories of last week's blunder, and no burning desire for more than exactly what is happening right here and now...that dog is in the moment.

Suddenly he raises his snout up toward the sky to catch a whiff of a passing scent, or to inspect the flashing movement of a flitting hummingbird. Then down again it goes as fast as it went up, to resume his mission of reading "pee-mails" left by those who visited this spot before him. He casts periodic glances my way, just to reassure himself of my presence and I return his glances with a nod and a wink. I stop for a moment, lean down and give him a peck on the cheek followed by a loving, "You are such a good boy and I'm proud of you!", to which his eyes roll back as if to of a teacher, enjoy a few of the wonderful postures reply, "I love you too." Then, down to the trail returns his intent focus, head swinging to and fro, floppy ears bouncing up and down on either side. In the moment. your feet hip distance apart, activate your legs and

And there it is, plain and simple. A subtle yet (ohso) valuable lesson to be learned from a precious pup. I know we humans don't get to just "live" like a dog lives, as if there is nothing to be planned for and no amends to be made for yesterday. We must bear the burden of responsibilities that are inherent to being human. But must we spend our every moment planning future events that we likely won't bother to enjoy because we will be so busy thinking about the next activity to be planned? And if we spend our days regretting the fact that we wasted time in the past, have we not wasted yet more precious time in fruitless regret?

I don't know about you, but I want to learn how to live in the moment, like my canine companions do. They don't even have to try, it comes naturally for them. I believe I was better about living in the moment as a child, but I seem to have lost that skill somewhere along the way of becoming an adult. Today I am on a new quest to restore my skill of being in the moment, and I am pleased to have the best teachers one could hope for. I'd be lost without the pets I get to spend time with. I hope you will join me in learning important lessons from the animals. They teach us through their simple ways of living, if we are willing to learn. There is a reason why God created them and put them by our side. Love, learn and let live.

THE JOY OF YOGA YOGA FOR GOOD POSTURE

tall doing yoga! Ha! Those of you who know me seriously wonderful news. Yoga can transform a person slightly forward. Make sure your knees don't jut out slouching in their chair into someone who sits upright with no assistance.

The sages say that asana poses were developed to make the spine strong in preparation for meditation. 'One whose spine is full of energy" is the definition of a yogi, so it goes without saying that the spine is a huge focal point in yoga.

I remember my mom telling me to "hold your shoulders back." Most of the time, this is what the teacher is masterfully trying to accomplish with students in yoga class. To assist with alignment of the spine when you are not enjoying the expertise described below at home.

First, try Tadasana or Mountain Pose. Stand with Madre

I've never been so belly. Draw shoulder blades onto your back and face your palms forward. Stand tall and breathe deeply. Second, try Utkatasana or Chair Pose. Inhale and bend your knees deeply while bringing the arms right know that's some alongside ears. Firm the belly and tilt your pelvis just too far over the ankles. Breathe deeply here with all muscles engaged. Other poses I love for posture and the confidence that boosts the structure are Warrior I, Bridge Pose, and just unassisted sitting, or meditation

> Keep practicing and watch the body change! Remember, everything is connected, so even safely stretching hamstrings can assist in posture. See you in class soon. article, from 30 years ago, that said a single woman seem frightening, but the rewards are immense over 40 was more likely to be killed by a terrorist than to find a mate and marry?

First of all, that article has been proven to be wrong over and over again. Second, who cares about stats when we are talking about a life you would love that includes love? The truth is that the odds are actually in your favor. Older adults are changing the rules for aging, dating, and sex. Love is available to everyone regardless of age. Studies also indicate that the maturity of age helps older adults have more positive dating experiences than they did in their youth. Older adults have well developed emotional brains.

Over 40 and ready to date? Good, because it's your time!

AVANTI ITALIAN BISTRO AND BAR

I was going through my last couple of hundred reviews and I was shocked/ saddened to see so many restaurants that have gone out of business the past five years. The list is too long for the space that I get here each week. One restaurant that has passed is Avanti Café on North Lake, for years owner Bobbi Ghorfanian prided himself on delicious food in a café style setting. But don't fret pizza and pasta lovers. This was a planned exit for an entrance of the Avanti İtalian Bistro and Bar on Sierra Madre in Pasadena. You might remember it as the Spring Garden, got to say 40 years living in Pasadena I never stopped in. Anyway you know

I have made it a point to let my readers know that I am in a constant search for the family owned restaurant. You may accurately say, it is the Holy Grail for this Restaurant Critic. It is the American dream for many and a business which has put many a child through diapers and college. It may stem out of some kind of shameless guilt which I carry. For I have written about the Big Chains when need be. I vowed that I would return to my true love, the Local Corner Restaurant. I think I found the Grail. Tap your heels together three times and just repeat the words, "There's no place like home, there's no place like home." They are responsible for some of the area's best gourmet pizzas. On my last visit I was to enjoy the glazed Apple Pizza ($13) and a traditional Hawaiian Pizza for ($12). One of the tests I put to each restaurant that I review is their soup. Avanti makes an unbelievable Chicken Barley Soup ($7), all I can add is, Wow. Need another reason to stop the next time. The Giuseppe Pizza ($14) is loaded with Spinach, Ricotta, Chicken Breast, Mushrooms and Red Peppers, all very fresh and perfectly baked in these flavorful ovens. The setting at Avanti Bar and Grill is somewhat sheik a fireplace, high wooden beams and a service bar with a small patio for those warm fall nights; the Bistro is unpretentious and very welcoming. There is a small parking lot in the back, seating is fairly limited here but Avanti maintains a nice selection of beer/ wine and full bar. And has a happy hour that well.. is just OK. Well worth the drive from wherever you are reading this. My daughter Lauren has to have the Garlic Knots with each visit. She knows her stuff, and you will love them too!!!

So all and all the restaurant mortality rate is so high, that even with all my experience in the hospitality business I would be crazy to open a restaurant. Owner Bobbi did the right thing to concentrate on one place he might have wished I wrote about the additions to the pizza, but that is what I was in the mood for.

HOW TO STOP UNWANTED JUNK MAIL AND GUARD AGAINST MAIL FRAUD

My elderly father gets over 100 pieces of junk mail every week, and I just discovered that he's given away nearly $5,000 over the past few months to many of the solicitors that mail him this junk. Can you offer any tips on how can I stop this? Irritated Son

Dear Irritated,

Millions of older Americans get bombarded with unwanted junk mail these days, including "mail fraud" schemes that you and your dad need to be particularly careful of. Here's are some tips that may help.

Mail Fraud Alert

While junk mail comes in many different forms credit card applications, sweepstakes entries, magazine offers, coupon mailers, donation requests, political fliers, catalogs and more – the most troublesome type is mail fraud, which comes from con artists who are only trying to take your money.

Mail fraud can be tricky to detect because there are many different types of schemes out there that may seem legitimate. Some of the most common mail scams targeting seniors today are phony sweepstakes, foreign lotteries, free prize or vacation scams, fake checks (see FakeChecks.org), donation requests from charities or government agencies that don't exist, getrich chain letters, work-at-home schemes, inheritance and investment scams, and many more.

If your dad is getting any type of junk mail that is asking for money in exchange for free gifts or winnings, or if he's receiving checks that require him to wire money, you need to call the U.S. Postal Inspector Service at 877-876-2455 and report it, and then throw it away. Unfortunately, once a person gets on these mail fraud lists, also known as "suckers lists," it's very difficult to get off. That's because these criminals regularly trade and sell mailing lists of people who they believe to be susceptible to fraud, and they won't remove a name when you request it.

Knowing this, a good first step to help protect your dad is to alert him to the different kinds of mail fraud and what to watch for. The U.S. Postal Inspection Service can help you with this. They offer a list of the different mail fraud schemes at PostalInspectors. author of "The Savvy Senior" book.

Another option is to see if your dad would be willing to let you sort through his mail before he opens it so you can weed out the junk. You may want to have the post office forward his mail directly to you to ensure this.

If your dad feels compelled to donate to certain charities, ask him to let you check them out first to make sure they're legitimate. You can do this at charity watchdog sites like CharityNavigator.org and Give.

Reduce Junk Mail

While scam artists aren't likely to take your dad's name off their mailing lists, most legitimate mailorder businesses will. To do this, start with the Direct Marketing Association, which offers a consumer optout service at DMAchoice.org. This won't eliminate all his junk mail, but it will reduce it. The opt-out service is $2 for 10 years if you register online, or $3 by mail. Then, to put a stop to the credit card and insurance offers he gets, call the consumer credit reporting industry opt-out service at 888-567-8688, and follow the automated prompts to opt him out for either five years or permanently. Be prepared to give his Social Security number and date of birth. You can also do this online at OptOutPrescreen.com. If you choose the permanent opt-out, you'll have to send a form in

You should also make sure your dad's home and cell phone numbers are registered with the National Do Not Call Registry (DoNotCall.gov, 888-382-1222), to help cut down on telemarketing calls.

Send your senior questions to: Savvy Senior, P.O. Box 5443, Norman, OK 73070, or visit SavvySenior.org. Jim Miller is a contributor to the NBC Today show and

I am sorry to be guilty, yet again, darker than the inside of a cow at night! All we means you won't either! So with that, enjoy!

without a family vacation! This year our vacations were fun and memorable without being scary, have been something for me to remember that. like the time my Mom, Grandma, and I went to Michigan about 20 years ago.

was filled with family visits and get-togethers. At one point, too many guests had used up all the available beds at my aunt's farm house where we were staying. This meant that Mom and I had to find a motel until the crowd cleared out and we could get our beds back. So Mom and I left Gran at the farm house and looked for lodging for the night. Already you can tell this is going to be bad.

Based on the advice from a relative, Mom and I decided to spend the night at the "Airport Motel" in Sebewaing. Keep in mind that this was before the days of cell phones, GPS navigation, and other helpful devices that make life more livable. All we had was the address, a map book, were perfectly fine with returning our key to the and the smiling endorsement from our relatives as surprised, but still creepy, manager. The long drive we drove out into the boonies.

But what was most disturbing was the door behind one of the beds. IN QUEST TO REACH ALPHA CENTAURI, BREAKTHROUGH STARSHOT LAUNCHES WORLD'S SMALLEST SPACECRAFT

Breakthrough Starshot, a multi-faceted program to develop and launch practical interstellar space missions, successfully flew its first spacecraft—the smallest ever launched.

On June 23, a number of prototype "Sprites"—the world's smallest fully functional space probes, built on a single circuit board—achieved low Earth orbit, piggybacking on OHB System AG's 'Max Valier' and 'Venta' satellites. The 3.5-by-3.5centimeter chips weigh just four grams but contain solar panels, computers, sensors, and radios. These vehicles are the next step of a revolution in spacecraft miniaturization that can contribute to the development of centimeter- and gram-scale "StarChips" envisioned by the Breakthrough Starshot

The Sprite is the brainchild of Breakthrough Starshot's Zac Manchester, whose 2011 Kickstarter campaign, "KickSat," raised the first funds to develop the concept. The Sprites were constructed by researchers at Cornell University and transported into space as secondary payloads by the Max Valier and Venta satellites, the latter built by the Bremen-based OHB System AG, whose generous assistance made the mission possible.

The Sprites remain attached to the satellites. Communications received from the mission show the Sprite system performing as designed. The spacecraft are in radio communication with ground stations in California and New York, as well as with amateur radio enthusiasts around the world. This mission is designed to test how well the Sprites' electronics perform in orbit, and demonstrates their novel radio communication architecture.

Breakthrough Starshot, announced on April 12, 2016, by Yuri Milner and Stephen Hawking, is a $100 million research and engineering program aiming to demonstrate proof of concept for lightpropelled spacecraft that could fly at 20 percent of light speed and, in just over 20 years after their launch, capture images and other measurements of the exoplanet Proxima b and other planets in our nearest star system, Alpha Centauri.

The Starshot concept envisions launching a "mothership" carrying about a thousand tiny spacecraft (on the scale of centimeters) to a high-altitude orbit and then deploying them. A phased array of ground-based lasers would then focus a light beam on the crafts' solar sails to accelerate them one by one to the target speed within 10 minutes, with an average acceleration on the order of 100 km/s2, and an illumination energy on the order of 1 TJ delivered to each sail, estimated to have a surface area of 4 m \times 4

If an Earth-size planet is orbiting within the Alpha Centauri system habitable zones, Breakthrough Starshot will try to aim its spacecraft within 1 astronomical unit (93 million miles) of it. From this distance, a craft's cameras could potentially capture an image of high enough quality to resolve surface features.

The fleet would have about 1000 spacecraft, and each one would be a very small centimeter-sized vehicle weighing a few grams. They would be propelled by a square-kilometer array of 10 kW groundbased lasers with a combined output of up to 100 GW. Each spacecraft would transmit data back to Earth using a compact onboard laser communications system using its solar sail as an antenna and the propulsion array as the receiver.

Last Tuesday, I gave an early-morning lecture to the Sierra Madre Rotary club, one of the city's service organization. Just to get to the meeting required hardiness and orienteering skills, since I had to arrive at 7 a.m. (that's way earlier than I usually get up) and then I had to search for a nearly-hidden small room in Sierra Madre Park. But I found the place, and was greeted by the friendly members, including the excellent chef Mario who created a top-notch omelette for me as I watched and gave directions. I was thinking, the omelette alone is a good reason to be a Rotarian.

My presentation revolved around the topics that I have been teaching all my life – ethnobotany, native uses of plants, and some of the ways that past civilizations utilized the natural flora to provide not only food, but medicine, fire, even clothing and cordage made from this desert plant.

I brought many of the seasonal wild plants to show which were in season. These are thin-fleshed fruit which are tasty, though the leaves are toxic.

I also shared some of my thoughts about some of the past civilizations of North America, such as the Cahokia (they had the largest pyramid north of Mexico City, in present day Illinois), the Adena, and the Anasazi. I shared some ideas about what caused the demise of the volunteer in activities that help the community.

vast Anasazi empire, and wondered if our civilization could one day suffer a similar fate. In fact, recognizing the non-sustainability of many of the our current social practices is why I got interested in ethno-botany and survival in the first place.

Through osmosis, I also learned a lot about the Rotary Člub by being there. For one, they are great fund-raisers for the club, and a can was constantly being passed around with many dollar bills going into it. I also learned that Rotarians will drop everything at a moment's notice and help people in need, even people in a distant country.

At the meeting, they all pledged allegiance to the flag, the assembled members, such as native wild cherries they sang songs, and they eagerly shared some of their personal business enterprises. Oh, and did I mention Mario who makes an incredible omelette? At the end We also saw some of the most nutritious plants in of the meeting, they all recited the Rotarian Code for analysis of activities and events: Is it the truth? Is it fair to all concerned? Will it build goodwill and better friendship? Will it be beneficial to all concerned? What a great code! It's too bad that everyone doesn't live by the Code of the Rotary Club.

I realized as I left and walked over the Bean Town for source of vitamin A, and dandelion is the highest source another cup of coffee, that Sierra Madre is a really great town. I got to see some of my favorite people on my The members also got to see the remarkable yucca walk. A Weekly Religion Column by Rev. James Snyder

CELEBRATION HAS BECOME A WAY OF LIFE FOR ME

I have just celebrated my birthday, my wife's birthday cake representing one candle per year. The fire department will not give us a permit to do me.

Someone asked me how long we have been married and without even thinking, I said, "Forever." Once that word danced out of my lips I knew I was in trouble with the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage. One look from her, and I knew that my forever had ended.

All seriousness aside, celebrations are wonderful opportunities, at least from my point of view, to gorge myself with cake. After all, if it is my birthday or anniversary or my wife's birthday, I should be respectful enough to eat the cake presented.

At my age, I'm not too concerned about eating healthy. That's why I love the holidays.

Between holidays, my wife insists on eating healthy. I cannot even name all of the vegetables that appear on our table at suppertime. I think they are vegetables, my wife says they are vegetables, but I am not so sure about it. My wife believes that if it is green and leafy it must be a vegetable.

I, on the other hand, with a fork in each hand, have had enough vegetables I want to get to the celebratory cake. After all, what is the sense in celebrating a birthday or an anniversary if you cannot eat the cake presented? Especially if it is my birthday.

I will give my wife the latitude to put vegetables, so-called, on our dinner table between our celebrations. The problem is, my birthday, her birthday and our anniversary are within three weeks of each other. That means, there are 49 weeks that I have to put up with vegetables.

Therefore, I am a great one when it comes to celebrating something. Anything. I am so glad that our culture is assisting me in this. It has come to the point where there is a celebration for every day of the year. I do not care what I'm celebrating, as long as cake is involved, I'm right there. After all, I certainly don't want to offend anybody.

In my carefulness to not offend anybody in this regard, I have on occasion offended my wife. She is a vegetableaholic if ever there was one. She even eats vegetables as a snack. Once at a church fellowship, she brought in a huge plate of raw vegetables, insinuating it was a snack tray.

Recently, I was sitting in my lazy-boy chair, drinking a nice hot cup of coffee and reflecting on the important issues of life. I cannot tell you how many problems in this world I have solved if only somebody would listen to me.

However, in my muse a wonderful thought birthday and our wedding anniversary. I am not embraced several grey cells. What if, and I don't sure how old I am or how long we have been have any legitimate documentation on this, when married and I won't even go to my wife's age. I'm we get to heaven, it is a celebration every day with cake only an angel could bake? And what if, ever I have long past the idea of candles on my day it was somebody's birthday and we needed to celebrate it? That certainly would make heaven for > Further, in my muse, what if there were no vegetables whatsoever to be found at the Marriage Supper of the Lamb? That too would make heaven, heaven for me. What if all we had at that table was cake, pie, ice cream and soda pop? Wouldn't that just be divine?

> I think most people, particularly my wife, take this matter of eating healthy too seriously. I think when a person eats it should be an enjoyable experience and not a ragged old duty.

> I wonder what kind of soda pop they will have in heaven? I'm sure it will not be a diet soda. Why would we be dieting in heaven?

> What if, and again, I am speculating, everyone in heaven is fat? Everyone is fat, eating, laughing and enjoying themselves. Wouldn't that be a shock to some people? I'm not saying it is, but who's to say it isn't? A person can dream, can't they?

That certainly would be something worth celebrating.

In the midst of all this musing, my wife happened to walk in and said, "What in the world are you smiling at?'

I confess it caught me a little off guard. I looked at her, still smiling and said, "I was thinking about heaven and the great time we are going to have celebrating up there."

I did not give her any particulars, because it was my dream. All she said was, "I think it'll be a wonderful time up there celebrating."

Her idea of celebrating may not be exactly my idea of celebrating, but then why get caught up in particulars. Her celebration may be different from my celebration, but if both of us are happy in that celebrating atmosphere, what's the harm?

I couldn't help but think of what Jesus once said to his disciples. "I am the living bread which came down from heaven: if any man eat of this bread, he shall live for ever: and the bread that I will give is my flesh, which I will give for the life of the world" (John 6:51).

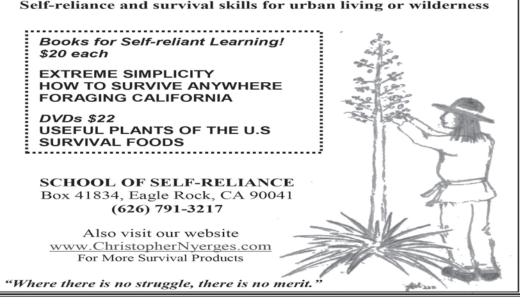

The best celebration that I know of is feasting upon that "living bread" which is none other than

COUNTY EXPANDS EFFORTS TO HELP FOSTER YOUTH ACHIEVE THEIR GOALS AS ADULTS WITH SELF SUFFICIENCY PROGRAM

LOS ANGELES COUNTY —The Board of Supervisors unanimously approved a motion by Supervisors Kathryn Barger and Hilda L. Solis which seeks to organize and enhance efforts by county departments and community partners to help foster youth transition to successful adulthood.

"Today's Board motion asks the county to refine and focus the collective initiatives to ensure we are providing comprehensive programs and services to those vulnerable young people for whom the county has become their de facto parent," said Supervisor Barger. "Starting at the earliest age possible, we must help foster youth achieve four foundational goals of educational attainment, stable employment, permanent housing, and emotional and social connections for well-being."

"Foster youth are among our most vulnerable young people in society. To the extent that they have unique challenges, this population deserves our time, attention and enhanced competency toward serving them," said Supervisor Solis. "Our foster children are our county's kids and I am committed to seeing that responsibility through with this motion."

Under the direction of the Chief Executive Office and the Office of Child Protection, the County will examine the existing system of care, and collaborate with community organizations and partners who are experts in the fields of housing, employment, education and health to identify the gaps and shortfalls in services, potential bureaucratic hurdles, existing successful initiatives, and promising pilot programs.

FUNDS FOR GOLD LINE FOOTHILL EXTENSION FROM CAP AND TRADE GREENHOUSE GAS REDUCTION FUNDS

Sacramento, CA – State Senator Anthony J. Portantino (D – La Cañada Flintridge), along with State Senator Connie M. Leyva and Assemblymember Freddie Rodriguez, jointly sent a letter requesting that $280 million of the Cap and Trade Greenhouse Gas Reduction Funds (GGRF) be allocated for the Gold Line Foothill Extension project. The funds would aid the Metro Gold Line Foothill Extension Construction Authority's efforts to bring the light rail project to the San Bernardino County community of Montclair.

The letter was sent from the three legislators to Senator Bob Wieckowski, Chair of Senate Budget Subcommittee 2 and Chair of the Senate Environmental Quality Committee, Senator Holly J. Mitchell, Chair of the Committee on Budget and de León. The letter also requests that the issue be agendized for public input on the Subcommittee 2's Hearing Agenda, and that the Construction Authority be allowed to testify.

I was pleased to be one of its biggest supporters while in the Assembly and I am continuing to make it a priority. I know that my colleagues feel the same way about it and I am very happy to join them in this joint letter," commented Portantino.

The Gold Line Foothill Extension project will increase public transportation from Los Angeles County to San Bernardino County. One of the most cost-effective ways to reduce greenhouse gas emissions is by taking cars off the road and providing viable alternatives. This project will decrease these emissions by increasing transit ridership while Fiscal Review, and Senate President Pro Tem Kevin reducing the number of independent vehicles on the road. Additionally, this project will alleviate traffic congestion between two counties and offer disadvantaged communities another transportation resource. The Guest Speaker was Tina Cherry, Director of Public Services for the City of Monrovia. She began thanking the Council for the opportunity to speak and the partnership between our Communities. The City is beginning Phase 2 of their improvements to roads, sidewalks and sewers in south Monrovia. She explained that the Old Depot will have an upscale restaurantthey are already building a platform to include outdoor dining. The $3 fee is Metro, not the City. City Manager Oliver Chi explained that Monrovia is a city with free parking and they were not happy over the parking fee at Station Square. We learned the Monrovia Station has 90% parking full-the most of any cities. There also was mention of a Marriott Suite Hotel in the future on the northwest corner of Huntington Drive and Myrtle Ave.

CHP Officer Rodrigo Dominguez had a power point presentation for us. It showed the extensive area served by the Baldwin Park office. A chart revealed over 16,000 traffic collisions occurred since July 2015 and broke them into categories such as "hit and run", "reckless driving" and "fatalities." Officer Jimenez revealed their Debra Mendelsohn, Senior Field Deputy for Supervisor Barger mentioned a motion sponsored by Supervisors Barger and Hahn to establish a "Blue Ribbon Commission on Public Safety", which passed. She talked about SEPTEMBER 13, Monrovia-Arcadia-Duarte Day at the Fair. Tickets can be purchased at a reduced rate with coupons available at all libraries. Ms. Mendlesohn also said the owners of the Mobile Home Park on Live Oak Avenue are trying to sell it. Their proposed project fell through. The site is empty, has transients living there and neighbors complain of trash.

Arcadia PD's Mike Vercillo came and had so many flyers with tips on safety. Again, residents who attend the Council Meetings would have access to these.

Deputy April Nelsen spoke of the latest crime trends and second story burglaries and robbers going through doggy doors.

Pamela Park's Sam Estrada talked of a successfull summer camp, and Parks After Dark. Thanks to the Life Church for backpacks for the kids and the Probation Office and State for funding for After School Programs and Field Trips!

That's why it's a crucial time to lean on the support of a good estate planning attorney. It's your attorney's GarlettLaw.com for more information.

job to use his or her extensive training and experience to make sure your family's estate is well cared for. Your attorney should be ready, willing, and able to carry the burden for you and take the initiative to ensure the smooth transition of all wealth and resources.

Here are the essential basics your attorney will cover, along with time-sensitive developments that could affect your administration of the estate:

1. Tying up loose ends with licenses, addresses, and accounts

This includes notifying the post office, IRS, and social security office as well as handling his or her email and social media accounts. It's also a good idea to contact his or her employer about benefits and pensions. A good estate planning attorney is instrumental in helping you handle this process and working with you to take stock of outstanding credit and debts - and you may not necessarily want to pay any debts until you've had a chance to consult with your attorney.

2. Learning your exact role in your spouse's or parent's estate plan

Once you formally meet with an attorney to begin the process of executing the directives and transfers delineated in your loved one's estate, they must go over the wills and trusts contained within it and clarify your specific legal and fiduciary role in carrying out his or her wishes. Your attorney will also assess the need for probate and if needed begin that judicial process at the appropriate time.

3. Beginning any necessary collaboration with other pertinent advisors

If your loved one worked with other professionals like a tax or financial planner, the attorney should get in touch with them to make sure the whole advisory team remains on the same page throughout the process.

The period immediately following the loss of a family member is one of the most difficult challenges life puts in our paths. Concern yourself with the personal aspects of grieving and healing, and know that you aren't alone when it comes to the complicated and often confusing task of sorting out his or her estate — far from it. Contact us or another qualified estate planning attorney right away to get help handling the legal and financial needs of the moment.

WELL-ROUNDED MANAGEMENT OR A BALANCED MANAGEMENT

For sole proprietorships and small businesses to survive every business process that is likely to be repeated on an and thrive, it is imperative to develop and establish ongoing or interim basis (i.e. ringing up a sale, weekly solid management skills and systems. management approach involves multitasking and the constant juggling of multiple priorities related to key areas of the business. A strong foundation for management in the areas of administration, operations and personnel will greatly increase the likelihood for success and profitability.

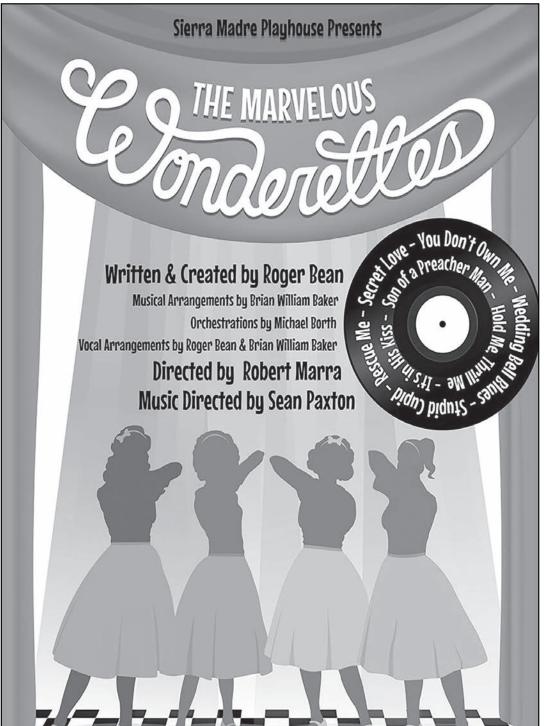

The administrative aspects of management will have the most profound impact on the entire business since this component deals with decisions that can only be made at the top, by the owner(s) or top-level executives. Employees should be able to count on having the resources readily available to do the jobs they were hired to do; this is one of the primary functions of business administration. This includes all of the "systems" needed to support the work of everyone in the company (i.e. adequate and appropriate office space, computer equipment, printers and/or copiers with readily-available supplies and if applicable, timely reimbursement for out-of-pocket expenses like mileage for a field sales rep)

The operational aspects of management will dictate executed. Written guidelines should be developed for succeed and prosper.

By developing and following standard guidelines, policies and procedures, you will be able to establish consistency to help your business achieve and maintain a reputation for quality. This will also make it easier and quicker to train new staff as your business evolves.

The personnel aspects of management are often easier said than actually executed. Labor laws at the federal, state and regional levels dictate guidelines for many aspects of employer-employee responsibilities. In addition to legal considerations regarding different classifications of personnel (i.e. exempt "salaried", non-exempt "hourly" and independent contractors "non-employees who work under a contract"), the ultimate success of management and the business rests upon the shoulder of the individuals who actually carry out the work.

Management talent can make or break a business, particularly in key areas that serve as pillars to support the business as a whole. The better the management, how smoothly the day-to-day and ongoing workflow is the greater likelihood that a business will make progress,

VIGILS WELCOME: LET US PRAY

In the wake of the tragic events in Charlottesville, Va. - in response to the anger, violence and loss of life - many communities across the country are leading prayer vigils. I think that is a grand idea.

I'm no theologian or philosopher, but at the age of 55, one thing has become evident. There is good in this world and there is evil - there is love and there is hate - and with every decision we make every moment of every day, we are moving toward one and away from the other.

Greek philosophers had names for what is good. They believed that prudence, temperance, courage and justice were virtues that all people longed for and should strive to master. By mastering these virtues, we are better able to do good works.

And while we're striving for good, we need to fight the bad: excessive pride, envy, gluttony, lust, anger, greed and sloth. These are known as the Seven Deadly

To be sure, this world is a battleground between good and evil, love and hate. That battle rages in every human heart. We saw hatefulness and violence rear its ugly head in Charlottesville, and we must denounce it forcefully. And we must also pray.

Prayer, according to Dictionary.com, is a "petition or entreaty." It is a conscious attempt to embrace good and root out evil by asking God to give us the grace to

To me, prayer is like tuning a radio. It is a deliberate, conscious effort to hear and understand with greater clarity what good and truth and beauty are, and then, hopefully, align ourselves and our actions with them. Hopefully, with prayer, we become more understanding, forgiving, loving and peaceful.

Some may think the concept of prayer is silly - that reaching out to a higher power to get closer to truth is silly. But you know in your own heart that it makes sense - that we all long to be more virtuous in our deeds.

Would you really enjoy a movie in which the star is a coward who runs off when the pressure gets tough? Would you root for a character motivated by hatred, or for one who risks everything for love? We are always moved by the hero who risks his or her life to achieve a greater good. We always root for the hero who is willing to die because of the power of love and good and right, not hate.

The trouble is, even the most virtuous among us struggle to do good all the time, which is why we must pray.

I'm not very skilled at praying - I certainly struggle to embrace the virtues taught to me by my Catholic faith - but I pray for the grace to become more kind, giving and understanding. I pray that those in my country whose hearts are filled with anger and hate will be given the grace they need to overcome these emotions.

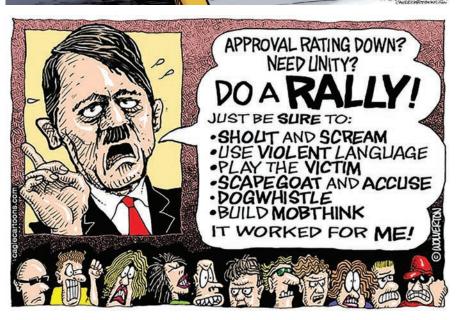

I pray that our growing polarization and lack of civility in our politics give way to peaceful, constructive discussion and unity, so we may address the many other real challenges we are up against.

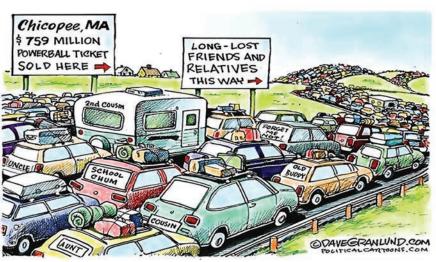

Multiple scientific studies confirm that people who pray recover more quickly from health issues than those who do not. Studies show also that people who have others praying on their behalf heal more quickly than those who do not.

Hopefully, the many prayer vigils taking place around the country will give all of us greater grace to become more virtuous - to become more understanding, forgiving, loving and peaceful. Let us pray.

TWO TRUMP POLICIES ODDS WITH ONE ANOTHER

It's already pretty clear that, in the Trump White House, the left hand often doesn't know what the right hand is doing. Now we have definitive proof that the right hand doesn't even know what it's doing.

Days after announcing an escalation of the American military prison in Afghanistan, President Donald Trump wants to prepare for that build-up by firing some 12,800 of them, as he finally turns his heinously cruel Tweets about bouncing transgender service-members into an actual policy. Because wouldn't you thin out the ranks of your company for no good reason at all just as you were about to embark on a major project that could affect you and your long-term security for years to come?

No, of course not. But that's the logic at work in Trumplandia.

According to NPR, transgender service-members "would be subject to removal at Defense Secretary James Mattis' discretion - and the service would bar transgender people from enlisting, under new White House guidelines for the Pentagon."

NPR reporter Tom Bowman confirmed "rough details" of the policy after the noted leftists at The Wall Street Journal went public with the White House's plan Gay and lesbian service-members have been able to serve openly in the U.S.

military since 2011. In 2016, then-Defense Secretary Ash Carter extended that to transgender service members. Trump abruptly changed course last month via a series of Tweets,. "After consultation with my Generals and military experts, please be advised that the United States Government will not accept or allow transgender individuals to serve in any capacity in the U.S. Military," he wrote. "Our military must be focused on decisive and overwhelming victory and cannot be burdened with the tremendous medical costs and disruption that transgender in the military would entail," Trump concluded. Never mind that Defense Secretary James Mattis was in the middle of studying the policy and hadn't finished yet. It also came as news to military bosses, who reaffirmed the service branches' commitment to inclusion and diversity. They also said they wouldn't carry out the policy until they got some kind of formal direction that wasn't a deranged Tweet by a septuagenarian with anger issues and the world's shortest attention

The New York Times reports that the ban, which would take effect in six months' time, "has not yet been finalized."

But "once it is approved, it would allow [Mattis] to force out transgender service members by setting a legal standard of whether they would be able to deploy to war zones or for other lengthy military missions," the newspaper reported

Like, for instance, an open-ended military commitment in Afghanistan where the standards for ascertaining victory are only slightly easier than nailing oranges to the wall.

So now there's an actual policy, which in addition to barring transgender members from serving, would also direct the military to stop spending money on medical care for trans service-members (never mind the fact that the real cost is beyond negligible).

Besides being slimy and probably not legal, the policy would also cause "significant disruptions" in the military and would "degrade readiness even more than the failed 'don't ask, don't tell' policy," the Palm Center, which helped the military devise its transgender admission standards, said in a statement, citing the comments of some 56 retired commanders.

Speaking to The New York Times, Aaron Belkin of the Palm Center said it was "unconscionable" for Trump to "take aim at his own, loyally serving troops for political reasons at a time when the military needs to focus on real threats.

'Imposing one set of standards for transgender troops, and another set of standards for everyone else is a recipe for disruption, distraction and waste," Belkin told The Times.

It's also not the freedom that the 10 sailors of the U.S.S. John McCain were serving to protect when they were killed in a collision with an oil tanker. Trump would do well to remember that.

MAKING SENSE by MICHAEL REAGAN

TRUMP THE FUTURE DEMOCRAT?

President Trump keeps making me look good.

Last week we repeated the sound advice we've frequently given him but which he regularly refuses to take - know when to shut up and listen to your staff.

This week he sabotaged himself yet again.

He totally wasted about 95 percent of the generally favorable media coverage and bipartisan huzzahs he got for his Afghanistan policy speech on Monday night.

He could have basked in the Afghan afterglow all week long and hit a few hundred balls on the practice range.

But instead by Tuesday night he was in Phoenix and up to his old dumb tricks, bashing Arizona's Republican senators John McCain and Jeff Flake, rehashing what he said about Charlottesville and throwing old and new spitballs at the fake It's hopeless.

He just can't stop himself.

He can't let anything go.

He can't quit campaigning for the job he's already won.

And he can't keep from bashing the Republicans in Congress he so desperately

It seems he's doing everything he can to get his base to vote Republicans out of power in 2018.

He wants to get rid of Flake. He certainly doesn't like McCain.

He's rough on Republican Congressional leaders Mitch McConnell and Paul Ryan – even though 70 pieces of legislation, some with bipartisan support and some especially pleasing to conservatives, have become law in the last seven months. Like the media he hates, President Trump says virtually nothing about those many legislative accomplishments and almost nothing positive about the Republicans who got them passed. But if he really wants to fix the tax system, get immigration reform or replace

Obamacare some day, he's going to need those Senate Republicans he's been

The best way to get them to be a part of his team is not to hold a personal pro-Trump rally and use them as punching bags and punch lines.

Maybe the president is just trying to be a nice guy and doesn't want to pick on the leaderless, rudderless, just-say-no-to-Trump Democrats when they're so hapless, pathetic and confused.

Maybe he has a long-term secret plan to blow up the two-party system, or prove that Republicans and Democrats in Washington are so much alike ideologically that it doesn't matter what party you join. But if he keeps it up much longer, President Trump will have a Democrat-controlled Congress in 2018 and then we Republicans are going to be asking him not to sign legislation to help us, but to help us by vetoing it.

Meanwhile, if the president stumbles any farther down this road to Republican Party ruin we might see him change his party affiliation.

He has no ideology, no party principles to uphold. What's it matter to him if he converts to a registered Democrat? It's what he was most of his life anyway. You never know with Trump. But even if he switched parties in 2020, it probably wouldn't matter much. The same forgotten Flyover Country people that put Hillary out to pasture and Donald into the White House would storm his huge rallies, cheer their Nascar hats off and later pull the Democrat lever for Trump with delight. He'd easily win the Democrat nomination because they have no one to run against him. The Hate Trump media couldn't stop him.

And he'd easily get reelected president in 2020 as a Democrat because he'd have spent four years destroying the Republican Party.
